DAWES SENT TO LEAGUE'S PARLEY ON MANCHURIA

Ambassador May Not Take Part in Council Discussions, but Will Be on Hand, Stimson Says, to Confer With Envoys.

FIGHTING RENEWED; 300 CHINESE KILLED

Brigade of Replacements Ordered From Japan by Mikado After Clash 400
Miles From Nonni Bridge Battlefield.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes in London has been ordered to Paris to attend the meeting of the League of Nations Council on the Manchurian question, beginning next Monday.

Secretary of State Stimson, in making the announcement, said that while Dawes might not find it necessary to participate in the Council meetings, he would be in a position to confer with the representatives of other nations if it would become advisable.

Secretary Stimson also said a "consultative note" had been received from Japan. He declined to make public the note, which was sent him yesterday by Ambassador DeBouché of Japan. The Secretary would not comment further. At previous deliberations of the League Council on the Manchurian question at Geneva, the United States was represented by Prentiss M. Gilbert, consul-general.

He was admitted to a seat at the Council table over the objection of Japan. He was authorized to take an active part in the deliberations, as the Kellogg-Briand anti-war treaty was discussed, but otherwise to act only as an observer.

Text of Stimson's statement regarding his action said: "I have asked Gen. Dawes, the Ambassador in London, to go to Paris during the coming meeting of the League of Nations. The League of Nations is the only body in which the United States has a voice at hand in this matter. It is particularly as the American Ambassador to Paris is at home on this subject."

It is not anticipated that Gen. Dawes will find it necessary to take part in the proceedings of the League Council, but he will be in a position to confer with the representatives of the other nations present. Such a conference should be held before the meeting of the League of Nations, which will be held at the end of the month.

A memorandum from Tokio regarding conditions under which Japanese troops in China will be retrained in Manchuria.

Ambassador DeBouché, in presenting Japan's reply to representations of the Ambassador Forbes in Tokio regarding the Government's position on the Japanese Stand.

He said Japan had an honest desire to withdraw its troops to the mainland zone, but first must have assurance from China that the security of Japanese lives and property will be respected.

His country's soldiers, he said, will not proceed northward to menaces to the Chinese railway owned by Japan and China.

Washington is still hinging its representations on demands that the Kellogg-Briand treaty be renounced and the Nine-Power Pact of 1922 guaranteeing the status quo in China be respected. It has refused from taking a position on the question of withdrawal of Japanese soldiers, which the League has demanded by next Monday.

Communications both to the League of Nations and to the League have in past cases been kept secret. There has been every indication, however, that America was working in close co-operation with French statesmen to prevent declarations of war.

COMMISSION VOTES RETURN OF BEER AND WINES IN FINLAND

Present Laws Insupportable, Government Investigators Will Say in Report.

By the Associated Press.
HELSINKI, Finland, Nov. 11.—A majority report condemning prohibition in Finland under the present laws will be submitted soon by the Government commission appointed last winter to investigate prohibition. It was learned today on high authority.

The general view of the commission is that the present laws are insupportable and the report will recommend that beer and wines of medium strength be legalized. The report offers three proposals: Legalization of manufacture and importation of wines of not more than 12 per cent of alcoholic content by volume; 12 per cent beer and 12 per cent liquors; establishment of a local option system by which any community might forbid manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages, but not importation by individuals for personal consumption at their homes; establishment of a company to supervise distribution of legal alcoholic beverages.

FRISCO AND ROCK ISLAND STOCK BUYING INVESTIGATED

L. C. C. Seeks Reasons for Purchases Involving Gulf, Mobile & Northern Also.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered an investigation of stock purchases by the Chicago Rock Island & Pacific and the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co. The inquiry will seek to determine the reasons behind the Rock Island's purchase of 250,000 shares of common stock of the St. Louis-San Francisco and acquisition of 250,000 shares by the latter of the Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad Co.

The order of investigation says the Rock Island's purchase of Frisco stock were made between October and December, 1930, and that the Frisco's purchase of Gulf, Mobile & Northern stock was made Dec. 16, 1930.

The two acquisitions were made by officers of the railroad companies without consulting the commission. In neither instance does the system of stock purchased constitute control.

The Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad, however, is assigned under the commission's consolidation plan to the Atlantic Coast Line system. The St. Louis-San Francisco, however, is assigned to the Rock Island in the consolidation plan.

The order of investigation says the Rock Island's purchase of Frisco stock were made between October and December, 1930, and that the Frisco's purchase of Gulf, Mobile & Northern stock was made Dec. 16, 1930.

EVER-BURNING LIGHT AND Aerial Beacon Would Be Put on High New Jersey Tower.

By the Associated Press.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, widow of the inventor, has approved a plan for a $10,000,000 world memorial to her late husband.

The Chamber of Commerce and civic organizations of the Oranges and Maplewood plan to erect a memorial on Eagle Rock, overlooking the Edison home, in Linden Park and visible for miles around. Its central feature would be a high tower surmounted by an ever-burning light and a beacon for aviators of the New York metropolitan area. The design is to be open to competition.

President Hoover will be asked to become honorary chairman of the committee in charge and Secretary Mellon of the Treasury honorary treasurer. Committees would be appointed in each State to work under the national group.

TELLS OF $12,000 PAID AFTER SEWER AWARD IN COUNTY

Charles C. Keck, Engineer, Says P.H. McAvoy Shared in Profits in Return for Appointment.

Testimony that P. H. McAvoy, St. Louis County cemetery salesman, received $12,000 from Charles C. Keck during Keck's 11-month tenure as engineer of the St. Ferdinand Sewer District, after an agreement under which McAvoy was to share Keck's profits in return for getting Keck the appointment, was heard yesterday in depositions in connection with the suit of John H. Behle to enjoin the sewer district from collecting preliminary taxes.

Early in 1930, and several weeks after Keck had resigned as engineer because of inability to finance his work, he said, McAvoy for $3500 for "money had and received." The circumstances of the transactions on which the suit was based were never disclosed until yesterday when Keck testified in Behle's suit. Sewer district activity, except for collection of taxes, has been at a standstill since the spring of the Ralph sewer law last spring.

John E. Mooney, attorney for Behle and president of the Taxpayers' Protective Association, questioned Keck in detail about McAvoy's connection with the St. Ferdinand district. In February, 1930, three weeks after Keck's suit, William F. Hecht, president of the District Board of Supervisors and McAvoy's employer in the sale of cemetery lots, resigned from the board on the demand of Circuit Judge Mulloy, in whose court the district was incorporated.

McAvoy was an election worker and bodyguard for Mulloy during the latter's campaign in 1928. Mulloy said after the Keck suit was filed that he had broken with McAvoy a year previously when he learned that McAvoy was supposed to have a 45 per cent interest in Keck's engineering firm. Mulloy has declined to explain why he ordered Hecht to resign.

Tells of Hotel Meeting.
Keck said he met McAvoy in 1926, when he did engineering work for the United Development Co., promoting the Mount Lebanon Cemetery, of which McAvoy was sales manager and Hecht, general manager. Stanley A. Sidmon and Harry W. Fulbright, now attorneys

Berg's Own Story of Captivity; Held in House on Busy Corner By Three He Thinks Were Novices

Believes He Was in St. Louis Though Abductors Said East St. Louis—They Wore Rubber Gloves to Avoid Fingerprints.

Copyright, 1931, by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
CLASPING the hand of his wife, and stopping frequently in his narrative to beam at her, Alexander Berg told the story of his abduction to Post-Dispatch reporters last night in his apartment at the Park Plaza Hotel, less than an hour after he had been released in Northwest St. Louis.

The wealthy 57-year-old fur dealer was still clad in the dark suit with gray pin stripe that he wore when kidnapped. It was wrinkled and there were spots of mud on the cuffs of the trousers. His gray figured tie was slightly disarrayed, his white shirt soiled. His shoes he had discarded for house slippers. Once during the course of his story he stopped for examination by a physician, and returned in a slightly narrative, minus shirt and trousers, clad in a dressing gown.

He is a short, stocky man with thinning hair, heavy black eyebrows and a jovially benign countenance. He told his story calmly in a good-natured voice, answering questions readily, in a slightly Southern accent.

"It Happened So Suddenly."
"It all happened so suddenly that I had no idea what it was all about until one of the kidnapers was in my car," he began. "I was on my way home from the office to my apartment in the Park Plaza. As usual, Albert Pike (the Negro chauffeur) was driving the car and I was sitting in the back seat."

"We had just passed Euclid avenue, westbound in Lindell. There was heavy traffic—it was just 6 o'clock—and we were moving slowly. All of a sudden the door swung open and a man jumped into the car beside me. At the same time another got in beside Albert and slammed the door.

"The man who got in with me pushed something against my side. I realized it was a pistol. I realized, too, that the man in the front seat was doing the same thing to Albert.

NO MONEY PAID; LAWYER HELD FOR COMPLICITY IN CRIME

Paul A. Richards Arrested on His Declaration to Berg's Attorney and Post-Dispatch Reporter That He Was to Receive $11,000 Share With Abductors.

Copyright, 1931, by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.
Paul A. Richards, attorney and self-declared agent of the kidnapers of Alexander Berg in negotiations leading to Berg's release last night on a promise to pay $50,000 ransom, was arrested early today, less than three hours after Berg had been set free by his kidnapers after four days' captivity and had made his way to his apartment in the Park Plaza Hotel.

As agent for the kidnapers Richards had arranged with Morris G. Levinson, attorney for Berg, for the payment of the ransom, to be turned over to Richards today. The ransom demand was pressed under the threat that Berg would be killed by his kidnapers if it were not forthcoming, or if it were not paid as promised prior to his release.

Before the payment was due, however, the kidnapers' agent had been trapped by police so that if the agreement had been followed the money could only have been paid to Richards in his cell at Police Headquarters.

The arrest of Richards resulted directly from statements made by him to Levinson and to John T. Rogers of the Post-Dispatch staff, who immediately reported them to police. In these conversations Richards represented himself as agent for the kidnapers, told Rogers and Levinson how the ransom was to be split, said that he himself was to get $11,000 of it, and arranged the details of Berg's release.

Statement to the Press.
After Berg had been turned loose by the kidnapers in Northwest St. Louis and had gone to his apartment alone in a taxicab, Levinson, on behalf of Berg, issued the following statement to the press last night:

Mr. Berg had been returned safely to his home. This was brought about through information furnished by John T. Rogers of the Post-Dispatch and the aid of the police. No ransom had been paid.

Levinson told Post-Dispatch reporters that both he and Berg were anxious to see the kidnapers prosecuted and would make every effort to assist the authorities.

Berg was kept a captive within the city. He reached that conclusion from the shortness of the automobile ride to the scene of his captivity as well as from the sounds he heard while he was there. Street cars passed every few minutes before the house where he was kept, he said, and there was heavy automobile traffic on another side, so that he concluded the house was on a corner. On Sunday morning he heard a church bell close at hand. Before that he had concluded, from the sounds he heard during the day, that he probably was in a second floor flat above a store.

The fact that he was kept in the city was also confirmed by Richards, who had said to Rogers and Levinson during negotiations for Berg's release that he was in St. Louis and could be produced on two hours' notice.

Richards Ordered Arrested.
While Berg was still relating his story to reporters shortly after last midnight, the police had broadcast orders for the arrest of Attorney Richards and several others whom they wanted to question about the case.

The order for the arrests was withheld until after Berg's return in conformity with an agreement made by Chief of Police Gerke with Levinson that nothing would be done by the police to jeopardize Berg's chances of safe and speedy restoration to his wife.

Richards, who is 30 years old, was arrested at Goodfellow and Natural Bridge avenues, a few steps from a barbecue stand operated on a lot near the intersection

Ever notice how many OLD HUDSON and ESSEX cars you see?

BATTERED and travel-stained, weather-beaten and road-worn, everywhere you see them coursing the highways or parked at the curbs—Hudson and Essex cars of an ancient vintage.

Hudson and Essex high-speed engines are the highest compression power units in use today, operating on standard fuels. The eight-cylinder Hudson "Greater Eight" develops 67 horsepower at 3600 r. p. m.; the Essex "Super Six," 60 horsepower at 3300 r. p. m. So efficient is Hudson and Essex engine design, owners may use ordinary gasoline without annoyance from engine knock.

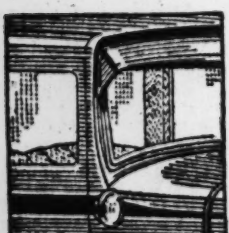

They're old, they're rusted, they rattle and are not much to look at—but, mark you, they're still on the job!

You see more of them than of other comparably priced makes, because most of the other cars of the same year's issue have gone out of use, gone to the junk-yard and the scrap-pile.

But these Hudson and Essex veterans are still smoothly putting the miles behind them, still paying big service dividends to the man in the driver's seat.

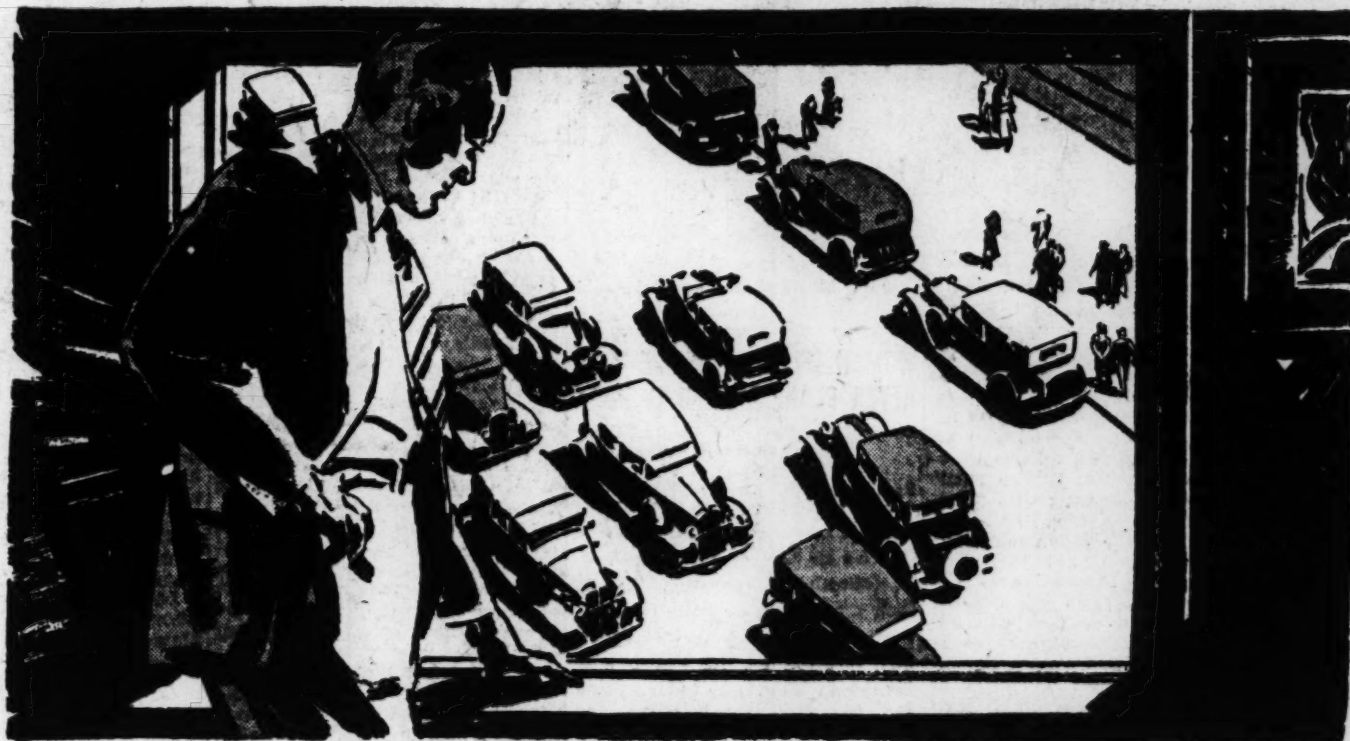

They said in competitive salesrooms that

Improved welding practice makes every Hudson and Essex body a single unit of rattle-proof steel from one windshield pillar around the body to the opposite windshield pillar; and panels of silencing material, forming a body within a body, eliminate creaks, drumming and other body noises and operating sounds.

these cars wouldn't stand up, that their outstanding performance was spectacularly good but it couldn't last.

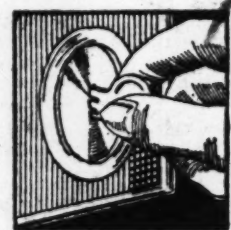

They said that engines which turned at such high speed, which delivered such surging acceleration and abundant sustained power, would be all right for a time, but that no popularly priced car structure could endure their prolonged operation.

"— mark you, they're still on the job!"

Well, they were wrong—you have only to look around to see that—and these Hudson and Essex cars are still doing their stuff while their heavier, slower brethren have long since given up the ghost.

Startix, the Automatic Self-Starter—a new safety feature available at slight extra cost—makes Hudson and Essex motors stall-proof. Should you stall your motor on hills or in traffic, Startix restarts it—instantly and automatically. Operated by the ignition lock, Startix starts your motor the moment you turn the switch, and keeps it going as long as the ignition is "on."

Talk to the men driving these old-timers and you'll find something more than a satisfied owner; you'll find a zealot whose first enthusiasm has never waned. The Hudson and Essex cars now being shown by our distributors and dealers are built to the same advanced pattern as were their sturdy fellows of old.

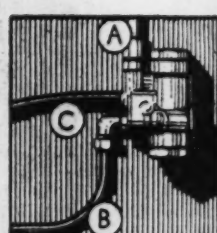

Aluminum Pistons are tested and proved features in both Hudson and Essex cars. Many other popularly priced cars still utilize the earlier type cast iron pistons, although in notable cases their producers recognize the superiority of aluminum pistons by incorporating them in their more expensive cars.

This year as in former years they embody exclusive engineering and structural advantages that will not be found generally available in other cars for another twelve or eighteen months.

They typify that leadership in motor car design and invention which throughout the automobile industry has given rise to the saying: "Watch Hudson!"

The time for you to look at a Hudson or Essex is before you decide what car to buy; otherwise you are literally spending your good money with your eyes shut! Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit, Michigan.

Duofo Automatic Oiling System—another exclusive Hudson and Essex development. An oversize aviation type pump forces two simultaneous streams of oil (A and B) to the front and rear of the engine, drenching every bearing in a continuous spray of fresh oil. Oil returns (C) to pump from a series of cooling baffles which reduce its temperature 45°, keeping it from thinning out with heat and reducing oil consumption.

5 KILLED, 6 HURT IN TENEMENT FIRE IN NEW YORK CITY

Blaze, Starting in Two Baby Carriages in Hallway, Shoots to Roof of 4-Story Frame Building.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Fire, starting in two baby carriages in the first floor hallway, shot to the roof of a four-story frame tenement in Brooklyn early today causing the death of five persons and injury to six others.

Fire officials and police began an investigation to learn if the blaze was incendiary.

The dead:

Mrs. Esther Chudow, 26 years old.

Lawrence Chudow, 13, her son.

Natalie Chudow, 3.

Mrs. Lena Webb, 35.

Mrs. Webb, 4 months old.

The Chudow family was trapped in their third floor apartment.

Maurice Chudow, the father, leaped from a window. He suffered a broken ankle. Firemen carried out Fanny Chudow, another daughter, suffering from burns and smoke.

Lawrence Chudow was alive when firemen forced their way into the apartment, but he died soon after being carried out. Mrs. Chudow and the other child were dead.

Mrs. Webb either leaped or fell from a window with her infant in her arms. Both were badly burned and died shortly after.

When firemen arrived the entire stairway to the fourth floor was in flames. About 20 tenants were assisted down ladders and fire escapes.

Blaze in Theater Building; 200 Led Out.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A spectacular fire which imperiled between 200 and 400 theater patrons, mostly children, caused injury to six firemen and damage estimated at $25,000, tore through two floors of the Lincoln Square Theater building, Broadway and Sixty-sixth street, late yesterday.

The building last January was the scene of a $1,000,000 fire in which 20 firemen were injured and 180 families made homeless. The building had been reconstructed within its old walls and reopened for occupancy about three months ago.

The fire sent forth such dense clouds of smoke that northbound traffic in Broadway, at last evening peak, was tangled hopelessly and police reserves were rushed to the scene.

A passing police detective, off duty, rushed into the theater and, with the help of ushers, led the audience to the street.

Several women were rescued from the building by policemen, some of them by way of a fire escape which, after they had descended three of its levels, refused to work at the second floor. A half-dozen firemen were treated for injuries and the effects of smoke. About 250 tenants escaped unaided.

Joseph Fosar, fireman, collapsed after rescuing six young women from a dance studio on the fifth floor. He was off duty and passing by when he heard screams for help and ran up the stairs.

City investigators traced the fire to a bowling alley, from which it spread to a store on the street level and up to the higher floors. Much of the actual damage was done by water in the theater.

Building Commissioner William F. Deegan said he had instigated two injunction proceedings against owners and operators of the property, asserting the premises were unsuitable for family occupancy. He said he had obtained a writ ordering families living in studio apartments to vacate on five days' notice. The writ was effective last Friday but the owners had obtained a Supreme Court stay which is yet to be argued.

The premises were not more than 10 per cent occupied.

for possible hidden assets of John Bain, politician and banker, continued yesterday before Judge Feinberg with special attention to the $1,600,000 in securities his former secretary testified he owned shortly before his 12 community banks were closed last June 9. All witnesses were questioned closely as to their knowledge of the whereabouts of a brown package that the secretary, Miss Anna Eunson, testified she gave Bain June 24. The package, she said, contained securities she had removed on her employer's orders from his safety deposit box. The last seen of the package was when Bain walked out of his office with it under his arm soon after Miss Eunson had handed it to him.
 Judge Feinberg placed two Pullman porters in the jury box where they could see the witnesses. The Judge made no comment upon their presence, but the purpose evidently was to see if they could identify any of the witnesses as passengers in their cars on trips to the East during the last year.

TO INSPECT HIGHWAY PATROL

Gov. Caulfield to Review 55 Who Have Finished Training.
 Gov. Caulfield will inspect 49 patrolmen and six officers of the recently created Missouri State Highway Patrol Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the gymnasium at Police Headquarters.
 The men have completed a six weeks' course at the School of Instruction of the police department. After their review Saturday they will receive furloughs of several days, then will report at Jefferson City for active duty.

SAVANTS HERE TALK
OF WORLD PROBLEMS

Armistice Day Seminar Sponsored by St. Louis Social Justice Commission.

Economic and political problems pressing for solution since the World War were discussed today at seminar on international relations sponsored by the St. Louis Social Justice Commission.
 Speakers at the opening session at Bishop Tuttle Memorial, were Prof. Isaac Lippincott of Washington University, Prof. Herbert H. Coulson of St. Louis University and Prof. J. Ray Cable of Washington University.
 The program for the afternoon session, at St. Louis University Law School, includes addresses on political problems by Prof. George A. Andrews of Principia College, Prof. Thomas O'Connor of St. Louis University, and Prof. Joseph M. Klamon of Washington University. The final session, dealing with adjustment agencies, will be held at Temple Israel, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard, at 8 o'clock tonight.
 Competitive strength of modern nations rests primarily on financial and industrial arrangements rather than territorial control or access to markets, Prof. Lippincott, who opened the seminar, said. His address dealt with the altered industrial positions of the Western Powers.
 Germany's Strong Position.
 "Present conditions offer material for an interesting forecast," he said, "for granted political stability, Germany may emerge in the next quarter century as the strongest industrial nation in Europe, second only to the United States as an industrial power. French policy envisages this outcome. Industrial power is more dangerous than military power."
 Industrial dominance by Germany, Prof. Lippincott said, would be made possible through such factors as a small domestic debt and the possibility that a long moratorium or complete debt cancellation would reduce its debt burden to negligible proportions.
 Except for Russia, Germany is more self-contained than any European nation, he said, while it is in an excellent position to obtain raw materials from Russia and ship merchandise there.
 "In fact, Germany will be the chief beneficiary of any good fortune that comes to Russia," he said, "and no other nation can expect as much."
 Influence of Tariffs.
 Prof. Coulson told of the influence of tariffs and international obligations upon trade. He traced the history of free trade and tariff barriers, pointing out a system aiding one country might not be feasible if adopted by another.
 "History shows that tariffs and freed trade existed side by side and commerce expanded under both," he said. "Economists can tell you why the system no longer works and why statesmen must give serious thought to the tariff problem, regarding it not from the narrow point of view of the privileged groups but bearing in mind what is best for the world in general."
 Prof. Cable said that this Armistice day finds the world in a state "of great financial confusion." The financial crisis in England has cleared the air, he said, and represents an aspect of a larger problem concerned with industrial dislocation and financial maladjustment, not all due to the World War.
 Prof. Cable outlined in detail the situation in England, stating that aside from France and the United States the outlook for the present maintenance of the gold standard is not bright.
 England's New Position.
 England's financial future, he asserted, depends largely upon a drastic retrenchment of participation in world business "with greater reliance upon domestic markets. Prof. Cable cautioned his auditors not to accept unreservedly the theory of an impending world gold shortage. France and the United States hold too much of the world's gold, he said, and it is difficult to make progress in redistributing gold until "the world is able to lay aside some of its financial and political uncertainties."
 The Rev. Joseph Hunslein, of St. Louis University, presided at the morning session. Rabbi Samuel Thurman is the chairman of this afternoon's meeting and the seminar tonight will be conducted by Dean Sidney E. Sweet, of Christ Church Cathedral.

10 YEARS FOR $26 HOLDUPS
 Anthony Blackwood, 18 years old, was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary by Circuit Judge Percy yesterday on two charges of robbery with a deadly weapon. He pleaded guilty.
 Blackwood admitted holding up filling stations at 7423 Gravois avenue and 2258 South Jefferson avenue, obtaining a total of $26. He gave his address as 549 Bates street.
 Plane Fogbound at Brookfield, Mo. Brookfield, Mo., Nov. 11.—Heavy fog prevented the take-off today of a passenger and mail plane of the National Air Transport, forced by heavy weather last night to abandon its Chicago-Kansas City flight and alight on an emergency field four miles from Brookfield. Eight of the plane passengers left this morning by train upon which the plane's cargo was dispatched. Pilot A. F. Kallbrenner said that a dense fog made landing impossible at Kansas City, where he arrived on scheduled time. He followed beacons northward to the emergency field at Brookfield.

RUSSIAN RATION CARDS SOLD

BY FRAUD: 48 ARRESTS MADE Veteran Forger Said to Have Been Leader of Group Which Has Confessed.

By the Associated Press.
 Leningrad, Nov. 11.—The arrest by the secret police of 48 persons, including several former nobles and one girl, on charges of engaging in mass forgery and sale of ration cards was announced yesterday.
 The group was identified as the "Academy of Private Market" and was said to have been led by Ser Virsky, described as a veteran forger. Police said the suspects had sold more than 30,000 ration cards and fictitious orders for manufactured goods through the convenience of a minor employee in the bureau of the Leningrad Soviet.
 The leaders were said to have confessed and will be tried shortly.

Tug Blows Up in Welland Canal.
 PORT COLBORNE, Ontario, Nov. 11.—The tug Rival of the St. Lawrence blew up and sank in the Welland canal here last night. The captain and three members of the crew were injured, one seriously.

PREMIER MACDONALD KEEPS SON IN JUNIOR MINISTRY.

Average Age of 33 Appointees Is Only 45; 16 of Them Are Conservatives.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Prime Minister MacDonald has announced the names of the junior members of his ministry, including his son, Malcolm, who retains the position of Undersecretary of State for the Dominions.
 Sir William Jovitt, who was defeated for membership in the House of Commons in the general election, retains the post of Attorney-General, which was regarded as indicating that another seat would be found for him shortly.
 Capt. H. D. Margesson, Conservative, was named chief Government whip in the House of Commons.
 The 32 appointments were remarkable for the comparative youthfulness of the men chosen. The average age is 45, with Malcolm MacDonald, 29, the youngest. Nineteen are Conservatives, eight are Liberals and five are National Labor members. They are members of the ministry, but do not hold cabinet rank.

ANOTHER EXPULSION BY SPANISH ASSEMBLY

One of Richest Men in Country Ousted on Bribery Charge.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Nov. 11.—Juan March, one of Spain's richest men, was expelled from the Constituent Assembly last night, by a vote of 191 to 4, following charges of bribery.

It was alleged that he attempted to buy protection from the Responsibilities Commission which was investigating allegedly illegal business dealings under the dictatorship of Primo de Rivera.

It was the second time within a week that the Assembly expelled one of its members. Emiliano Iglesias, leader of the radical Republican party, was expelled last Friday on suspicion that he had acted for March in offering 25,000 pesetas (about $200) to buy information from a member of the Responsibilities Commission.

March failed to attend the session of the Assembly which voted to expel him, having said that persecution by his colleagues prevented him from presenting his case. Instead, he sent letters in which he declared his innocence of the bribery charge, as well as the charge that the commission was investigating. The latter accusation was that he had used money illegally to acquire a tobacco monopoly and other concessions under the monarchy.

DOCTOR FAILS TO MAKE SUICIDE APPEAR TO BE HOLDUP MURDER

Attaches Pistol to Long Elastic Cord Before Shooting Self at North Attleboro, Mass.

By the Associated Press.

NORTH ATTLEBORO, Mass., Nov. 11.—An attempt of Dr. Frederick J. Carley, 52 years old, to make his death appear other than a suicide failed yesterday.

The pistol with which Dr. Carley took his life in his garage was found a considerable distance from his body whither it had been snatched by a long elastic cord he had attached to it and then tied in the cellar.

Dr. Carley, a member of the staff of Sturdy Memorial Hospital, shot himself below the heart after answering a maternity call at 4:30 a. m. Financial difficulties were advanced as a probable cause of his suicide by members of his family.

A relative found Dr. Carley's body on the floor of his garage, which is attached to his dwelling. Lights of the automobile and garage were burning. An empty billfold and a check book were found on the floor and his pockets were empty. No weapon was immediately found and it was thought Dr. Carley had been slain by robbers.

State Detectives Francis Clemmey, John Stokes and Joseph Ferreri found the doctor's revolver attached to an elastic cord at the most distant corner of the cellar of the house.

Washington University will hold its Homecoming celebration Friday and Saturday. A football game with the University of Kansas will be played Saturday afternoon.

Friday night at 7:30 o'clock there will be a mass meeting and bonfire at Liggett Field with Lawrence McDonald and Daniel Bartlett the speakers. The cornerstone of Givens Hall, new architectural building, will be laid Saturday at 9:30 a. m. and at 11:30 a. m. a mass meeting will be held in the main quadrangle.

At noon there will be an automobile parade and at 1 p. m. Charles M. Hay will speak at a "pop" luncheon in the Women's Building. The football game will start at 2:30 p. m. and a homecoming dance will be held at 9 p. m.

SIX HURT IN GAS WELL FIRE

Workmen Have Been Unable to Extinguish Ohio Blaze.

By the Associated Press.

ZANESVILLE, O., Nov. 11.—Workmen of the Cannelville oil field stood by today to fight a blaze at the Dozer gas well in which six persons were burned, two of them seriously.

The fire, which started yesterday, still raged today. Workmen, after unsuccessful attempts to extinguish it, said they might be forced to let it burn itself out.

The Dozer well, with a capacity of 1,000,000 cubic feet a day, exploded when a motor backfired. Six workmen, trapped at the top of the well, were badly burned about the head at flames shot 50 feet into the air.

$100,000 SUIT IS DISMISSED

Illegal Service in Woman's Action Against Conkey Whitehead.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 11.—Federal Judge Halted L. Ritter yesterday dismissed a $100,000 breach of promise suit brought against Conkey P. Whitehead, wealthy Atlanta sportsman, by Miss Selina Miller, Albany, N. Y.

The Judge ruled that service of papers on Whitehead was obtained illegally. Attorneys told Judge Ritter that a Deputy Sheriff sent to serve a subpoena on Whitehead in his hotel in Palm Beach, read the paper to his valet, who they said donned his employer's clothing and accepted service.

HORSE WINS 187TH RIBBON
Entry of Paul Moore Undelected in Horse Shows for 5 Years.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Keeping intact one of the greatest records in the history of harness racing, Paul Moore of Morrisstown, N. J., swept through a field of heavy harness horses at the National Horse Show yesterday to win her 187th blue ribbon in five years.

Starting five years ago as a six-year-old, Seaton Pippin has been in practically every important horse show in the country without being defeated. Including in the collection of blue ribbons are 51 awards representing grand championships.
Seaton Pippin's second consecutive victory in the Garvin Challenge Cup yesterday was the fourth time that the aged mare had shown and won during the current show.

A new Recipe

Creamette Noodles With Frankfurters

- 1 pkg. Creamette Egg Noodles
- 4 frankfurters
- 4 tablespoons shortening
- 2 cups canned tomatoes
- 1/2 tsp. prepared mustard
- 2 tbsps. minced parsley
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 medium onion (sliced)
- 1 stalk celery (chopped)

Boil the Creamette Egg Noodles according to directions on the package. Skin the frankfurters. Melt the shortening, add the onion and frankfurters, then cook, stirring constantly until the frankfurters are browned. Remove the frankfurters. Discard the browned onion and add to the shortening. Add the four made into a paste with two tablespoons water. Then add the tomatoes, celery, salt, pepper and mustard. Cook 15 minutes. Arrange the noodles on a hot platter and pour the sauce over them. In the center place frankfurters, garnished with parsley.

TREATING ZOO'S ANIMALS WITH ULTRA-VIOLET LIGHT

Pittsburgh Conducting Experiments Along Lines of London and San Francisco.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 11.—Afflictions of former jungle inhabitants, brought on by confinement in the Highland Park Zoo, are to be treated by ultra-violet light. This was announced by Clifford B. Connelly, chairman of City Council's Committee on Parks, which has been investigating sickness among the animals. Similar experiments, it was said, have been successful in San Francisco and London.
Lights will be installed in the cages and results watched closely. An effort will be made to give the animals the equivalent of sunlight they would have if living outdoors in their native haunts. Those native to tropical lands will receive special attention.

THREE BOYS, CAUGHT ON TRESTLE, KILLED

One Hit by Train, Two Others Drowned When They Leap Into River.

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 11.—Trapped on a railroad trestle by approaching trains, a 10-year-old boy was struck and killed and two other youths were drowned today when they leaped into the River Rouge.

Three others escaped injury by hanging onto a support while the train sped by.
The dead were Oscar Filippi, 10 years old; Oscar Schronk, 11, and Robert Rear, 12, all of River Rouge. Filippi was struck by the train and the other two were drowned when they jumped from the trestle. There are two sets of tracks on the trestle.
The three who escaped death are James Carter, 12; his brother, Carl, 8, and Robert Alandt, 13, all of River Rouge.

Witnesses said the boys were crossing the trestle when a west-bound Wabash freight passed. A moment later a Wabash passenger train roared across the trestle, trapping three of the six.
The survivors told police they and their companions were on their way to visit the grave of the Filippi boy's mother in Woodmere Cemetery, nearby. She died two weeks ago.

MANY PERSONS WITH GOOD INCOMES GOT NEW YORK AID

Some Who Shared in Family Receipts of $100 a Week Given Charity.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—In one borough of the city 253 persons, some of whom shared family incomes of $100 a week, got aid unworthily from the Municipal Employment Relief Fund last winter, Frank J. Taylor, Commissioner of Public Welfare, testified today. At the public hearing of the House of Representatives Committee he said that the 253 had been discovered on Staten Island by city investigators after a newspaper had exposed a number of unworthy cases there. After the city investigation all were adjudged unworthy of relief and taken off the city payroll, he said. Of the 253, no more than 155 had equities in small homes; 13 owned stores or other property; 19 had incomes of $50 or more a week; 18 incomes of $60 or more; 16 incomes of $70 or more. Several of those who received city work, which paid them $11 a week, shared family incomes of $110 to $115 weekly, Taylor said. Commissioner Taylor estimated that there were now $60,000 idle in New York and that about $60,000 will require relief this winter.

ADmits 21 ROBBERIES; SAYS 'MY CONSCIENCE HURT ME'

Granite City Man, Out of Work, Tried for Two Days to Make Confession.

James F. Mayor, 27-year-old unemployed laborer of Granite City, who for two days sought to tell someone he had committed a series of robberies, confessed yesterday, according to Granite City police, that he had committed 21 robberies, obtaining $479 in cash and a quantity of jewelry. "My conscience hurt me," he said.
He will be arraigned today in Circuit Court at Edwardsville. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Mayor, with whom he lived at 2125 Edison avenue, said they would seek a sanity hearing in an effort to have him confined in a sanitarium.
Mayor visited the home of a Granite City policeman Sunday and acquired if there were charges pending against him. Informed there was none, he departed, but returned twice and received the same answer. Monday he went to the home of Sam Pershall, grocer, and said he had robbed one of Pershall's stores. Pershall suggested he return some other time. When he returned yesterday, Pershall called police.

SEEKING MOTIVES IN SUICIDE OF GIRL, TWO BOYS IN VILLAGE

Authorities Learn That Victims Were Acquainted But Were Not Close Associates.

By the Associated Press.
ELKHART, Tex., Nov. 11.—The suicide motives of three young persons, none of whom was more than 19 years old, are being sought by authorities of this small East Texas community.
All Elkheart business houses were closed as funerals were held for Miss Doris McCann, 17, and B. Clyde Kennedy, 16, yesterday. Rites for Ernest Miller Jr., who, according to friends, said "everybody else is killing themselves, guess it's a good time for me to kill myself," were set for today, his seventeenth birthday.

Kennedy was found dead in his hotel on Monday afternoon, a victim of poisoning. He left a note reading "good-by and good luck to my family and friends."
Miss McCann died at her home without making a statement. A coroner's jury attributed her death to poison she had purchased a short time before.

Miller, a high school student, shot himself with his father's pistol. A note to his parents said: "It's better for me to die now than disappoint you in life."
Friends said the three victims were acquainted, but never had been close associates.

Head of Real Estate Boards Explains Plan for Liquidating Frozen Paper.

A plan for the liquidation of frozen real estate mortgages to be presented to Congress next month was outlined last night by Harry S. Kissell, Springfield, O., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at a meeting sponsored by the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange at Hotel Chase.
Kissell said the Government plan to lend $2,000,000,000 to discount real estate paper would necessitate a bond issue for that amount. Another $2,000,000,000 bond issue, he said, may be necessary to make up an anticipated Government deficit. Kissell said the resultant total of $4,000,000,000 in bonds probably could not be absorbed. His plan, which he is promulgating in a series of addresses all over the country, would create a central bank for the discounting of mortgages on homes only.
Such a system would be created by Congress and would function under Federal supervision, Kissell said, with a central control board, regional banks, and local member banks. Members would include savings and loan institutions, banks of deposit, trust companies, and insurance concerns. All would subscribe for stock in the central mortgage discount system and would be subject to an assessment of from 1 to 1 1/2 per cent of the total of the mortgages in their possession.
"The regional banks would buy or discount mortgages held by member banks," Kissell said, "and sell bonds based on the mortgages, secured by 50 per cent or less of the original loan."

CHAUFFEUR INJURED IN CRASH FRIDAY DIES

Norman Ryan, 28, Succumbs to Skull and Rib Fractures at City Hospital.

Norman Ryan, 28 years old, a chauffeur, 3114 Rolla place, died at City Hospital yesterday of fractures of the skull and ribs suffered last Friday noon in a collision between two automobiles at Pendleton and Evans avenues.

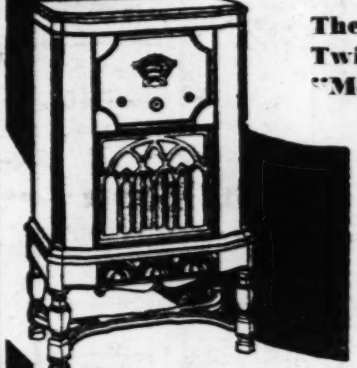

Ryan's car collided with another machine driven by Peter Colmi, a grocer, 1324 North Sarah street.

Miss Ella Brogan, 1456 Warren street, a sister of State Senator Joseph Brogan, suffered a fractured leg and skull injuries at 6 a. m. today when struck by a delivery truck at Thirteenth and North Market streets. The driver was James Martin, 1911 Hickory street. She was on her way to church at the time.

Henry Hohman, a chauffeur for the People's Motorbus Co., was cut on the right arm and hand by flying glass at 8:30 a. m. today when the engine of his bus exploded, in the 3800 block of Delmar boulevard. There were no passengers on the bus, which was westbound.

Calliope and Tear Gas Rout Crowd.
MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Nov. 11.—Music and tear gas were used by the police in breaking up a demonstration of unemployed here yesterday. The purpose of the demonstration was to protest against the rate of 25 cents an hour offered to the unemployed who would work on the roads. A parade was started after an afternoon of speeches in a park. When the parade was formed the police borrowed a calliope from a theater. Those demonstrators who were not dispersed by the music were routed with a few tear gas shells.

Mrs. Charles Maddux Says Husband Left Home Eight Months Ago.
Mrs. Charles Maddux, 3707 Bond avenue, East St. Louis, yesterday identified a spectacle case and remnants of clothing found by the skeleton of a man in a thicket by Cahokia Creek, as the property of her husband, who left home eight months ago to look for work.
The skeleton was found Oct. 17, last, about a quarter-mile from the eastern approach to the Free Bridge. A rope with a slip noose was hanging from a nearby tree. Mrs. Maddux said her husband, a 38-year-old unemployed truck driver, had told her he was going to look for work along the river.

TAXES SURE TO GO UP, INVESTMENT BANKERS BELIEVE

They Think Increase Will Be Necessary to Meet Expected U. S. Deficit for Some Time.

By Associated Press.
WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS,
W. Va., Nov. 11.—Increased Federal taxes will be necessary to meet not only the probable $2,000,000-000 deficit for the present fiscal year, but also the deficits that are likely to continue for several years, the Investment Bankers' Association convention decided today.

The association approved a committee report recommending cancellation of the capital gains and losses tax after the present year,
the immediate adoption by Congress of special, not general, sales taxes, the immediate abandonment of the estate tax and further action to eliminate international double taxation.

The report further commented on the advisability of gift taxes to meet the prevailing practice of dividing an estate among the eventual heirs prior to the death of the owner.

Little Prospect of Surplus.
The prospects of Treasury surpluses in the near future are rather remote, the report said. "On the contrary, the continued economic depression has reduced Government revenues to an extent that indicates a probable deficit for the current fiscal year of around $2-000,000,000."

"The return of more normal business conditions will presumably be gradual and it will be some time before an improvement in condition will be reflected in the revenues of the Government. The situation which confronts the Treasury is much too serious to justify a continuation of borrowing to pay current expenses and it seems to be generally appreciated that condition necessitates an early readjustment of the tax program regardless of political considerations."

Both political parties will do their best to avoid income tax increases due to the proximity of the presidential election, the report said, and the greatest emphasis will probably be placed on luxury, stamp, gift and special sales taxes.

Would Spread Increase.
"In order to do as little harm as possible to the economic recovery of the country," the report advised,
"the burden of increase in taxes should be spread out as much as possible and the increase should not all be from one source."

It is felt that this tax program should be enacted at the next session of Congress so that there may be a prompt start made in collecting any excess tax that may be levied.

Capital gains and losses taxes should be abandoned only after the present fiscal year, so the losses experienced in this depression year may be taken into the tax accounts.
Gains already have been taxed in prosperity so it is only fair, the committee said, that losses should now be taken into account.

The estate tax should be removed for the reason that it forces
the sale of property in bad times, and that valuation on the date of death often changes greatly before the time of payment of the tax a year later.

All new taxation should be considered of an emergency nature and should be abandoned as economic conditions improve, the report held.

The association, in the final day of their convention, was impressed today with the description by John M. Miller Jr., director of the National Credit Corporation, of the work of the bankers in perfecting President Hoover's plan to loosen the frozen assets of the banks.

Miller said $400,000,000 already had been subscribed and that he expected $200,000,000 more would be offered. He reported an enthusiastic willingness to develop the use of the corporation, and expressed his belief that already the influence of the corporation had been expressed in increased confidence in the country's economic future.

Miller described the loans which will be made as penalty money, explaining that borrowers may be required to pay as high as 9 per cent, following the customary rates charged in various states. Ten per cent of the funds will be called early next week—the first actual money thus far demanded by the corporation.

He denied the pool plan will be inflationary because loans will not be made that are not absolutely necessary, "and necessary is a big word to use. It means necessary for the conduct of a sound bank, when it is faced with a run or when its reserve is too low."

The convention adopted a report urging the public utility companies voluntarily to correct mistakes they have made, and to discuss publicly and frankly controversial utility questions.

The report, stressing opposition to Federal regulation and to any sort of public operation or ownership, said "mere corporate manipulation of securities cannot be tolerated," and warned of the danger of speculation in a security of a public service nature.

The report criticized holding companies as too complicated and suggested that strengthening of present State laws would serve to regulate holding companies, denying the advantage of "a super regulation of holding companies."

P. S. CO. HEAD QUESTIONED ON RAPID TRANSIT

Stanley Clarke Says Subways From 19th to Third on Washington and Olive Would Help.

PART OF TERMINAL TUNNEL MIGHT DO

Discusses Modern Elevated Road to Wellston in Examination Before Committee of Aldermen.

Examination of Stanley Clarke, president of the St. Louis Public Service Co., by the Transportation Committee of the Board of Aldermen at a hearing yesterday afternoon was along two lines: First, the cost of the street railway system to its present owners, and second, the views of Clarke on certain suggested rapid transit improvements.

Clarke was a witness at the request of the committee and was questioned chiefly by Cleveland A. Newton, the committee's special counsel, but also by City Counselor Muench and Associate City Counselor Forrest G. Ferris Jr., and by some of the committee members.

Subways under Olive street and Washington avenue between Nineteenth and Third streets, suggested by the Transportation Survey Commission as the first step in a possible rapid transit program, would serve principally for traffic relief and should not be described as "rapid transit," Clarke said. He thought, however, that such subways would make Third street as accessible as Twelfth boulevard is now, and would increase riding on the mass transportation lines.

Clarke was asked if he thought it feasible to use the Terminal Railroad Association's tunnel under Eighth street and Washington avenue as part of a rapid transit subway, and he said he had considered it possible to use that part of the tunnel north of Olive street as part of an underground loop. He added that the tunnel had never been examined by the company's engineers with a view to determining its adaptability for such use.

Road to Wellston.
Clarke was asked if he thought it would be feasible to construct a rapid transit line to Wellston, using a modern elevated structure, possibly along Lucas avenue to Grand boulevard and the present private right of way of the street car line beyond Vandeventer avenue. He described a modern elevated structure, supported by concrete pillars centered under the roadway which would be filled with crushed rock to reduce noise, and said he thought it could be built without damaging adjacent property.

Another suggestion put to Clarke was for a rapid transit line to the southwestern suburbs, possibly as far as Kirkwood, along private right of way and utilizing the downtown section through the Terminal tunnel. Clarke said it would be a long time before such a structure would pay its carrying costs, but added that benefited property might pay part of the cost.

Effect of Rapid Transit.
Rapid transit lines generally benefited property at both ends and sometimes had a more or less temporary damaging effect upon intermediate business property, Clarke said. He thought this would be particularly so in the case of subways from Third street to Grand boulevard, but would not be true of a subway extending only from Third street to Nineteenth street.

Newton asked Clarke why so many street cars are turned back at Twelfth boulevard. Clarke said it was because "they got lost" in the congested downtown district for so long that unless some were turned back there would not be enough cars to maintain schedules. The effect of increased facilities for bus terminals near Third street was another question raised by Newton. Clarke said such facilities undoubtedly would help to bring more persons into the downtown section.

As to the cost of the street railway system to its present owners, the Public Service Co., Clarke said: "There is no possible way to give it unless you can determine what the property was worth before the sale, because what they paid was just what they had in it."

What the Property Cost.

The property was purchased at a Federal Court receiver's sale Aug. 1, 1927, and concerning the price paid, Judge Paris said, in a memorandum explaining: "The total price bid was the sum of $8,301,000 plus the assumption of certain priorities, of costs, expenses, fees and mortgage debts secured by bonds of $40,800,000, making a total of $49,101,000 plus costs, expenses and fees."

At a hearing last week, F. C. Belser, a public accountant employed by the committee, calculated ed the total cost of the street railway property, as it now stands, to present owners was $53,117,456.

Continuing, Clarke said all the new money put into the company at the time of purchase was the $4,295,200 subscribed for common stock—that the remainder was paid out of the "equity in the old company."

Associate City Counselor Ferris questioned Clarke at length about the depreciation reserve balance of about $3,800,000 shown on the books of the old company at the time it turned the property over to the Public Service Co., at the close of business on Nov. 30, 1927, but which did not appear on the books of the new company. The city has a suit pending before the State Public Service Commission to require an accounting of this item.

Assets "Written Down."
Clarke said the old company carried its assets on its balance sheet at far too high a value, about $115,000,000, and that the new company arbitrarily wrote this down to $75,000,000, thus deducting not only the $40,000,000 for depreciation, but nearly $40,000,000 more. He said the $75,000,000 also was an arbitrary figure and that if the company had then had the rate base valuation which was fixed later by the Public Service Commission at $66,000,000, it would have used that for its book assets.

Clarke added that the company had never earned the return to which it is entitled and that it had no immediate prospect of being able to earn it. He estimated that as a result of the wage reduction in assessment for taxation this year the company would end the year with earnings of about $100,000 above operating expenses, taxes and interest.

"The committee will continue its hearings, it is announced by Chairman Edward W. Wiehe, but the time was not fixed for another meeting. Two weeks ago the Local Transportation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce pre-

BOOKMAKERS INDICTED ON FELONY CHARGES

Ten Accused by Grand Jury—Previous Offenders Compromised for $250 Fine.

The grand jury indicted 10 bookmakers yesterday for acting as custodians of bets, a felony punishable by a maximum penalty of five years in the penitentiary. A previous group of 40 bookmakers against whom similar indictments were returned made an agreement with Circuit Attorney Miller to plead guilty of keeping a gaming device, a lesser offense, punishable by a $250 fine.

Circuit Attorney Miller said no agreement existed with those indicted yesterday and that future cases would be considered separately. Fines have been paid by 26 of the 40, the money going to the School Board.

Those indicted yesterday and the places of their arrests follow: Ed Lee, 108 North Ninth street; Edward Bochart, 2004 South Thirtieth street; John Reese, 208 North Eighth street; James P. Brennan, 3564½ Olive street; William A. Kohlschreiber, 608 Morgan street; John Neilson, 919 South Grand boulevard, rear; Joseph M. Cody, 3221 St. Louis avenue; Charles Rau, 2315 Cherokee street; Joe Cavasino, 2628 Washington avenue, and Ralph Hare, 4408 Natural Bridge avenue, rear.

sented a report showing the need of transportation improvement. Chairman George O. Willson of the Chamber's committee attended yesterday's hearing.

SAYS U. S. IS PIVOT IN ARMS CONFERENCE

Dr. L. M. Short Declares Success of Geneva Session Is Largely in Its Hands.

The success of the world disarmament conference at Geneva in 1932 hinges on whether the United States adopts "a liberal attitude toward proposals for reductions in armaments," Dr. Lloyd M. Short, professor of political science and public law at the University of Missouri, said in an address here today before the social economy and international relations section of the Wednesday Club.

"The potential strength of this nation and our position of relative security makes it feasible for us to adopt a liberal attitude toward proposals for reduction in armaments," he said. "It is essential that our representatives as in the Washington conference of 1922, be determined to overcome the technical obstacles to disarmament, of which there are many, in the larger interests of economic rehabilitation and international peace."

Practical Objective.
Declaring complete disarmament except for police purposes is now nothing more than a Utopian dream and that the only practical objective for the present is limitation and reduction of armaments by international agreements, Dr. Short continued:

"The financial burden imposed upon the nations of the world by an unrestrained competition in armaments—each country striving to attain a supposed state of adequate preparedness for defense purposes—constitutes a powerful argument for disarmament."

"It has been estimated that the principal nations of the world are now spending approximately four billion dollars a year for armaments alone. Of this total, the United States is spending nearly three-quarters of a billion dollars. The world continues to lavish its money and material resources upon non-productive armaments, yet often begrudges the cost of education and public welfare and finds it difficult during a period of economic depression to secure the funds necessary for the adequate relief of the needy.

Prevention of War Chief Aim.

"The ultimate goal of disarmament, however, is not the reduction of national expenditures, important as that is, but rather the prevention of war and the promotion of peace. While there is disagreement as to the relative importance of the various factors which lead to armed conflict between nations, most of the statesmen and many of the military and naval leaders of the world agree that armaments are a cause of war and at least in some instances have been the primary cause.

"It must not be forgotten that the problem of disarmament cannot be dissociated from the allied problems of security and the judicial settlement of international disputes. In fact, some insist that any substantial accomplishment in the direction of a reduction in armaments is dependent upon mutual guarantees of protection against aggression, while others contend that the ultimate objective of disarmament—the prevention of war—cannot be reached without the universal acceptance and support of agencies of an international character which provide for the peaceful settlement of controversies between nations.

"The United States must take cognizance of these related problems and if we are sincerely interested in the ultimate success of disarmament we can hardly refuse to lend our aid in solving them."

You can fool yourself but you can't fool BAD BREATH

You can find halitosis* in the dictionary but don't let them find it on you!

If you dilute your mouth antiseptic—then you must use one that kills germs when mixed with water. Most mouth antiseptics don't. Pepsodent Antiseptic does. And checks bad breath 1 to 2 hours longer.

HALITOSIS* the dictionary calls it. To most people it's plain bad breath. Millions have it. Millions fight it—but 3 out of 4 have been wasting their time. That's because they were diluting old-time mouth antiseptics that couldn't kill germs when mixed with water. Now they have turned to Pepsodent—the new antiseptic that you can mix with water and still be sure it's killing germs.

3 to 11 times more powerful

Here is the startling news in this new discovery. You can mix Pepsodent Antiseptic with 2 parts of water, to suit your taste, and it still kills germs in less than 10 seconds. That's where most other leading mouth antiseptics fail. Yet in spite of all its power, Pepsodent Antiseptic is utterly safe when used full strength. What a weapon in fighting bad breath.

New security against bad breath (Halitosis*)

Pepsodent Antiseptic checks bad breath due to unhygienic mouth conditions 1 to 2 hours longer! Immediately after use, 95% of germs on mouth surfaces are destroyed. Two hours later the number of germs is still reduced by 80%. That is far longer acting than other leading mouth antiseptics. And remember—when you use Pepsodent Antiseptic to check bad breath, you are doing double duty by also fighting colds.

$3 worth for $1—regardless of size

To kill germs—most mouth antiseptics must be used full strength. So to mix them with water is a waste of money. Contrariwise, Pepsodent Antiseptic can be mixed with twice its own volume of water. Thus Pepsodent Antiseptic goes 3 times as far—saves you $2 for every $1 you spend. Pepsodent Antiseptic comes in 3 sizes: 3 ounces for 25 cents—7 ounces for 50 cents—16 ounces for $1. The larger the size the more for your money. Learn to rely on Pepsodent Antiseptic whenever a safe, effective germ-killing agent is required. It has scores of uses. Again we say: Quit being good to germs. They've laughed at you long enough. Play safe. Buy an antiseptic that really kills germs when diluted. Remember: You can fool yourself but you can't fool bad breath.

10,000 TEACHERS OF STATE IN CITY FOR CONVENTION

Sessions Open Today—Dr.
 S. Parkes Cadman Will Speak on "Mission of Republic" Tonight.

The sixty-ninth annual convention of the Missouri State Teachers' Association opened today at Hotel Statler with the assembly of delegates and the first business session.
 The convention will continue until Saturday.
 General sessions until Saturday will be held at the Coliseum, the first one at 8:15 o'clock tonight when the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cad-man, pastor of Central Congregational Church of Brooklyn, N. Y., and president of the Federated Council of Churches of Christ in America, will speak. His subject is "The Mission of the Republic."
 It is estimated that total attendance at the convention will be about 10,000. Meetings of the association are held alternately here and in Kansas City, but if a proposed change is adopted, the state meetings will be abandoned after this year for six annual district meetings.
 Tomorrow morning's general session will be held at 9:15 o'clock and the speakers will be Dr.
 Charles H. Judd, director of the School of Education of the University of Chicago, and Ruth Bryan Owen, Member of Congress from Florida. Four divisional meetings for elementary school groups, secondary school, college and university and vocational training groups are set for tomorrow afternoon.
 At the general session tomorrow night Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, will speak on "America's Appointment with Destiny."
 At the general session Friday morning, speakers will be Harold R. Peat, an author widely known for his book, "Private Peat," and Albert Edward Wiggam, also an author. Twenty-eight departmental meetings will be held Friday afternoon, when speakers will discuss particular phases of school activity. Meeting places at hotels, churches and schools have been arranged.
 Henry Turner Bailey, former director of the Cleveland School of Art, will speak on "The Wise Use of Leisure" at the Friday night general session. A concert by a State orchestra of high school pupils, under the direction of Karl E. Webb, will be presented on the same program.
 The final general session Saturday morning will be held at Hotel Jefferson with five addresses, three of them based on recent school developments in Missouri. The other two speakers are Dr. Edwin C. Broome, superintendent of Philadelphia public schools and Florence Hale, president of the National Education Association.
ROOSEVELT IN ROW WITH U. S.
OVER NAVAL MILITIA FLYERS
 New York Governor Disbands Squadrons Because of "Lack of Co-operation."
 By the Associated Press.
 ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Gov.
 Roosevelt yesterday ordered the disbandment of the aviation squadrons of New York naval militia because of what he described as lack of co-operation by the United States Navy Department.
 When asked whether the dis-bandment of other units of the naval militia were being considered, the Governor declined to comment except to say: "We will cross that bridge when we come to it."
 The Governor's action was regarded outside of administration quarters as the latest development in a disagreement between the Navy Department and several states that have naval militia, with regard to the policy of administration. The issue, according to unofficial opinion, is whether the naval militia will continue to exist as state units or be absorbed by the naval reserve.
 At Washington, Rear Admiral Upham, chief of the Bureau of Navigation in the Navy Department, said Roosevelt's action appeared to be "a logical move, taken by way of simplifying the matter of command."
 He said 95 per cent of the naval militia personnel belonged to the naval reserve and that all the equipment used, with the exception of Floyd Bennett Field, which is let by the City of New York, belonged to the Federal Government and was expressly allocated to naval reserve use.
COUSIN OF ALFONSO NEARLY

 Infante to Try to Recoup Fortune
 Lost Partly Through Bad Investments.
 By the Associated Press.
 PARIS, Nov. 11.—Financial reverses brought on by the overthrow of the Bourbon dynasty have reduced the Infante, Alfonso d'Or-leans, cousin of former King Alfonso, to a point where he has decided to go to America within the next two months to try to recoup his fortune.
 A member of the family said the downfall of Alfonso and bad investments previous to that time had drained the Infante's resources.
 His sons have two more years of schooling before they can expect to earn a living and it is possible that the Infante and his wife may remain in America.

NEW ILLINOIS STATE PARK

Governor Approves Plan for Jersey and Madison Counties.
By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 11.—Gov. Emmerson has approved plans for creating a new State park out of 2000 acres bordering the Illinois River in Jersey and Madison Counties, the second piece of property purchased under the 25-year program of the State Park Advisory Board. The first was the Grant homestead at Galena. Gov. Emmerson speaks today in Galena at formal exercises transferring the homestead to the State.

Joe Page of Jerseyville and John D. McDams of Allen, members of the committee which obtained $25,000 in subscriptions to the new park project, conferred with the Governor yesterday. The State will pay the remaining $25,000.

HOME OF ITALIAN VICE CONSUL IN SCRANTON BOMBED

About 20 Persons Injured in Blast That Wrecks House and Buries Pair Under Debris.

By the Associated Press.
SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 11.—Several persons were hurt and extensive property damage was done early today when a bomb wrecked the home of Chevalier Fortunato Tiscar, Italian Vice Consul in 39 Northeastern Pennsylvania and Southern New York State counties.

The Vice Consul, who is 75, and his wife, about the same age, were tossed from their beds and buried under debris as the front of the three-story frame structure tumbled into the street.

Both the Vice Consul and his wife suffered greatly from shock. The Vice Consul was removed to the home of a neighbor and is under the care of a physician.

Mrs. Tiscar said she had no idea why their home should be dynamited, but police officials looked upon the bombing as the fulfillment of reports that the anti-Fascist demonstrations would accompany the visit to this country of Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy.

Signor Grandi is expected to reach New York Monday for a conference with President Hoover. Every house in the block where the Tiscar home is was damaged by the explosion. Police reported that at least 20 persons had been cut by glass or falling articles in their homes.

Heat for the section is supplied by mains from the city steam pipes, many of which were broken, as were several gas and water mains. Breaking of water pipes caused several residences to be flooded.

Police said a heavy dynamite bomb had been planted either on or beneath the porch.

Chevalier Tiscar has been a resident here 35 years and has held his present post for about 25 years.

Grandi to Be Taken to Train in Closely Guarded Car.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Through the windows of a closed car, amply guarded by police, Dino Grandi, Italy's Foreign Minister, will obtain his first view of New York's streets after he arrives Monday. Although Mayor James J. Walker denied anti-Fascist threats of disturbance had anything to do with it, tentative plans for an official reception for the Italian statesman have been abandoned.

Signor Grandi will be met at Pier 55 when the Conte Grande docks. He will be escorted at once in a closed car to the Pennsylvania Station, where he will board a train for Washington for a series of conferences with President Hoover.

When he returns to New York, however, a civic welcome is planned. Signor Grandi is expected to sail for home about Nov. 23 and will return here several days before that.

Referring to the reception at that time the Mayor said, "If the Minister of Foreign Affairs gets hurt I will get hurt, too, for I will be at his side."

NINE MORE MEN ARRESTED IN MISSOURI MINE ROW

Assistant Attorney-General Arrives at Lexington to Aid in Investigation.

By the Associated Press.
LEXINGTON, Mo., Nov. 11.—Donald Perrett, Assistant State Attorney-General, arrived here yesterday to aid in investigating recent disorders affecting nonunion miners in this section and in prosecuting offenders.

Arrests were brought to 18 yesterday with the taking of nine men into custody on charges of feloniously assaulting 70 nonunion miners of the Farmers' Coal Co. and the Collett & Hartwig mine near Higginsville, Nov. 5. Seven of the remaining nine face similar charges. Two others, Harry Rogers and Everett Bramlett, the latter said by authorities to be a paroled convict, are held on charges of bombing the home of Dave Johnson, a Negro miner, here last Friday night. Three homes of miners have been bombed in this vicinity within the past two weeks.

Following the attack with clubs and bricks by a group of more than 100 men near Higginsville, officers of the Farmers' Fuel Co. attributed the incident to agitation by purported representatives of the United Mine Workers of America for a return to the 1917 wage scale. The company officers said two operators agreed to recognize the union and pay the 1917 scale but that Collett & Hartwig and the Farmers' Coal Co. refused.

Many miners in the Lexington vicinity belong to a locally organized union.

SUIT OVER ESTATE OF $30,000

Step-Son Attacks Mrs. Dumler's Will Cutting Him Out With $5. Suit to set aside the will of Mrs. Theresa Dumler, who died May 30, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by John A. Dumler, 3735 Shreve avenue, her step-son. She bequeathed $5 to him and left the bulk of the residue of her estate, estimated to be worth $30,000, to two nephews and four nieces. They are Peter Seidel, Adolph Wille-

THIS actual performance test demonstrates the protection that the recommended grade of New Iso-Vis gives an engine in cold weather. In these zero tests with 13 different makes of cars, the average flow time for New Iso-Vis after the engine started, was only 2 3/5 seconds.

Each car was left overnight in the cold room of a leading automotive manufacturer where the temperature was constantly at zero. The Contest Board of the American Automobile Association supervised the tests and certifies to the results.

Protect your car during cold weather with the immediate lubrication of New Iso-Vis. Don't let it suffer the extra wear and tear generally caused by cold starts.

Now, by these zero tests, New

Iso-Vis has demonstrated that it gives year-around lubrication. Read these proved facts gathered from the records of the White Fleet on the Indianapolis Speedway, on the open road and in zero cold rooms.

- 1 New Iso-Vis gives cold weather lubrication in seconds—not minutes.
- 2 New Iso-Vis will not thin out from dilution.

WELCOME MISSOURI SCHOOL TEACHERS

"AGAIN for BETTER PUBLIC SERVICE"

OSAGE is at YOUR SERVICE

WHEN the switch is closed—whether it be the tiny one that gives you light or the ponderous affair controlling the power of a great industrial plant—electricity must instantly answer the call, rushing to service at a speed that would carry it around the earth seven times in a single second.

That countless thousands may call at the same moment must make no difference. Back of the switch must be men, plants and machinery, ample in numbers and capacity, surely and accurately controlled so that electricity shall do your bidding.

That this may be so Union Electric has created the vast power pool which serves you, linking into a single system that monolithic giant, the Keokuk Hydro-Electric Plant, drawing its power from the Father of Waters; Cahokia, a great and modern steam plant, across the river from downtown St. Louis; Ashley, located in the heart of industrial St. Louis; Venice and Rivermines, strategically located as to future growth; and now the Osage Hydro-Electric Plant, drawing its power from a water shed of 14,000 square miles—a flexible and reliable interconnected system of hydro-electric and steam plants, a fundamental necessity to the greater industrial expansion and prosperity of the St. Louis District.

Osage is big. In installed capacity it ranks fifth among the developed water powers of the United States. The Dam rises 148 feet from bedrock and behind it could be hidden a row of 12 story buildings reaching down Olive Street from Twelfth Boulevard to Broadway. Each year it will generate as much electricity as was used in all St. Louis during the year 1924. Probably Missouri's largest single industrial project—it cost in excess of 30 million dollars and is now harnessed to your switch.

HOOVER SEES TURN OF TIDE TO PEACE
IN NEW DIPLOMACYRelief in World's Distress Is Following Direct Contacts by Nations and Groups.DEDICATES DISTRICT MEMORIAL TEMPLEPresident Says War Backwash Has Shaken Nations' Stability but Confidence Is Returning.By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—President Hoover warned the nations of the world today that peace "cannot be had by resolution and inaction alone."Dedicating the new marble temple memorializing District of Columbia participation in the World War, the President, in an Armistice Day speech, said the world today was more heavily armed than before the war and confidence should be re-established "not alone each nation in its own institutions, but among nations."The backwash of forces loosed by the great war, he said, "has been growing until during the past two years the stability of many nations has been greatly shaken.""This, with their fears and discouragement for the future, weakened confidence throughout the world financial and economic world. That loss of confidence led enormously to unemployment, to the distress of agriculture and business everywhere."Value of Direct Appeal.
The President said action to restore nations from economic stress required no treaties or commitments and pointed out that progress was being made by "frank, sincere, and direct personal conferences on mutual problems between heads of States throughout the world."It has been made by similar action among the financial, industrial, and social institutions of the world," he added. "These discussions have developed common actions and have increased good will and confidence. These consistent efforts are providing new bases of belief and are assuredly turning the tide for a greatly suffering world."Text of President's Speech.
The text of President Hoover's speech follows:
"Great shrines in our national capital mark reverent remembrance of those who have given valiant and noble to the nation.
Marble and bronze, in their eloquence of silence and beauty, tell the deathless story of heroic deeds done for our country."We gather here today to dedicate a new shrine to those residents of the District of Columbia who served in the World War. This temple will recall for all time their service and sacrifices.
"It is particularly fitting that these services should be held on Armistice Day, when, throughout the nation, our citizens pause to remember those who gave their lives in the greatest conflict which has ever engulfed the world."Since Guns Ceased Firing.
"Fifteen years to the day and more have passed since the guns ceased their destruction of life and nations began their march back to peace and reconstruction. That day was a day of rejoicing in victory and pride in the valor of our army and navy, a day of hope for a better world. With the succeeding year, Armistice Day has come to be a day to pay tribute to the millions who valiantly gave arms in a worthy cause and to those who resolved that the peace for which these men sacrificed themselves shall be maintained.""However great our desire for peace, we must not assume that peace for which these men died has become assured to the world and that the obligations which they left to us the living, have been discharged. The minds of many are still stirred by memories of centuries of injustice; in others there is ever present the fear of domination and oppression; many peoples are filled with hopes of liberty and independence. The boundaries of many nations are hot zones of age-old contention.
The growth of population and economic striving press against the borders of others.""World-wide expansion of commerce and industry, with its vast interchange of citizens, brings the daily obligation of self-respecting nations to see that their nationals abroad in peaceful pursuits shall not be unjustly imperiled as to life and property. In every country men and women are living in a state of fear and hate of their neighbors. As a result of these forces the world is more heavily armed than even before the great war.""All of these dangers present to the world today are the direct result of the failure of nations to act in unison. Peace is the product of preparedness for defense, to the patient settlement of controversy, and the dynamic development of the forces of good will.
It is the result of the delicate balance of that realism born of human experience and of idealism born of the highest of human aspirations for international justice."Royalty Takes Part in Armistice Memorial in London and BrusselsPresident Paul Doumer of France Who Lost Four Sons in War Puts Wreath on Unknown Soldier's Tomb.By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 11.—A cold wind kept King George from attending the Armistice day celebration here but the Prince of Wales placed a wreath at the foot of the cenotaph in Whitehall, while his mother, Queen Mary, and the Duke of Gloucester watched from a window. It was in performing this ceremony two years ago that the King caught the cold which resulted in a long and serious illness.
As Big Ben struck 11 o'clock, a period of two minutes of silence was observed."Last post" was sounded by the guards' band and a crowd of many thousands assembled at the monument sang the hymn, "Oh, God, Our Help in Ages Past."
The band struck up in a quick step and the veterans marched off to the wartime tunes of "Tipperary," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and "There's a Long, Long Trail."In Paris President Paul Dou-mer, who lost four sons in the war, placed a wreath on the flat slab which marks the tomb of the Unknown Soldier of France at theArch of Triumph. The band of the National Republican Guard played the Marseillaise, the troops of the Paris garrison stood at attention and the nation observed a minute of silence.
This evening Gen. Gouraud, the military Governor of Paris, will rekindle the flame at the unknown warrior's tomb and buglers will sound "taps," a call recently adopted by the French Army.Albert, King of the Belgians, played his part in the ceremony at Brussels where deputations from nearly every regiment of the army were present. There, too, the flame which burns at the foot of the Unknown Soldier's tomb will be rekindled in the evening.Ceremonies were held also at Lisbon and Bucharest, Italy, which celebrated the Armistice with Austria a week ago, observed today as the birthday of the King.
Warsaw and Prague and their own Armistice services.In Germany some newspapers marked the day with bitter editorials against the "war guilt lie" and the Versailles treaty. Vienna and most of the Balkans did not observe the day and in Russia work in the factories and on the farms went on as usual.statesmen a world where peace can

OPEN FIGHT FOR BRITISH TARIFFEmpire Industries Group Head Urges Association's Members in Parliament to Act at Once.By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 11.—Rumblings of a possible Conservative revolt against the National Government on the question of a protective tariff are beginning to be heard.
The new National Government obtained a majority of 369 in the House of Commons today on the first division since the new Parliament was convened.Winston Churchill, one-time Chancellor of the Exchequer, at a later stage of the session made a declaration in favor of a protective tariff. His constituency is overwhelmingly in favor of making a "substantial scientific experiment in general tariffs," he said. In the lobbies it was commented that his speech may herald a definite move toward protection, with Churchill in the lead.The Conservative party holds a strong majority in the new House of Commons. Its high tariff groups are frankly disgruntled over the intention of Prime Minister Mac-Donald, as outlined in his address at the opening of Parliament yesterday, to take no action on the tariff question until an investigation is made.The protectionists insist that the country is being flooded with foreign imports in anticipation of an expected tariff. They want immediate action. There were reports about the lobbies today that a formal demand for such action would be made.Three hundred Conservative members of Parliament are members of the Empire Industries Association, a strongly protectionist body, whose chairman, Sir Henry Page Croft, last night issued a circular to House members, urging them to insist that "the mandate of the electorate to protect industry and agriculture" be given effect.The Daily Express appeared today with a headline declaring:
"Tory M. P.'s Give Notice of Revolt."It was considered quite probable in parliamentary circles that the members of the Empire Industries Body, including those who are members of Parliament, would rally to the chairman's call, with the prospects of stormy time for the National Government's program.Predictions that the high tariff Conservatives would make an attempt to use their majority to secure the enactment of protection schedules immediately after Parliament opened were made shortly after the general election two weeks ago, when a landslide gave the party an almost unprecedented majority in the House of Commons.Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, quickly issued a statement in which he said the election victory was not a triumph of any party, but a tribute to the National Government, which was pledged to use any means found practicable to restore world confidence in the country.NEW DROUGHT IN THE SOUTH; WINTER GRAIN BEING KILLEDSerious Damage to Wheat in West Kansas; Moisture Needed
in Oklahoma.By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Persistent lack of fall rainfall has gripped Southern and Southwestern states in another drought that is killing winter grains, drying streams and feeding forest fires.
Damage to winter wheat in the western half of the wheat belt, especially West Kansas, has become serious. The Weather Bureau today the condition of wheat there was "poor to very poor, with little growth and not much up.""Moisture," the bureau added,
"also is needed in Oklahoma, while in Texas progress and condition of grains are poor, except where rain fell last month."A MORTUARY for all

RUSSIA IN TRANSITION—No. 28

Emancipated Women in Russia
Prepared to Do Manual Labor
Because of Peasant BackgroundAccustomed to Hard Work Forced on Them Under Old Regime—Serve as Policemen, Soldiers, Ship Officers, Engineers.By Raymond P. Brandt,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1931, by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.)MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., October AMERICAN women visiting Soviet Russia for the first time are shocked to see husky young women working as section hands on the railroads, handling wheelbarrows of sand and driving huge tractors. They cannot comprehend how their Russian sisters can be so happy under Soviet equality of the sexes.The visiting Americans forget, if they ever knew, Russia's peasant background and the tradition of work that was ground into Russian women by the old patriarchal system which gave men complete dominance over women.Emancipation came with the revolution. Soviet legislation bears out Lenin's declaration that "we do not leave one trace of the old Czarist laws which placed women in a subordinate and humiliating position." Naturally all of the old inequalities have not yet been eliminated in fact. As in other Soviet instances, a reversal of the usual Western methods.

No Shirking Hard Labor.

About 20 per cent of the industrial workers are women. The percentage, of course, is much higher in office work. Women are not always given the lighter and cleaner tasks. They unload lumber, feed concrete mixers, drive street cars, grease tramway curves, mend roads,
run power machinery, to mention only a few of their heavier jobs.
There are also women traffic policemen, soldiers, ship officers, electrical workers, draftsmen, engineers and foremen. On the collieries and State farms they do their share, sometimes more than their share of the heavy work, just as in the old peasant days, when the women pitched the hay and the men drove the horses.They are active in the Government and in the Communist party.
Many are elected to the village Soviets and run the co-operative stores. Mme. Alexandra Kollantai was a Commissar of Social Welfare

Equal Pay With Men.

Women received wages equal to those of men even before the piece work payment was established. The American specialists say that they show greater attention to their work, are more loyal and less prone to shiftness than the men.The writer's own experience in White Russia in 1922-23 bears out this view. In the Hoover reliefTIENTSIN FIGHTING RENEWED; FRENCH
AND BRITISH DIG INRaiders in Clash Between Chinese City and Japanese Concession Are Beheaded—Heads on Poles.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

TIENTSIN, China, Nov. 11.— French and British troops went into the trenches here on Armistice day today as renewed firing between the Chinese city and the Japanese concession threatened a battle in which international complications might occur.The British entrenched themselves around their barracks adjacent to the village of Laoshikai, at the western end of the French concession and bordering on both the Chinese city and the Japanese concession. The French garrison also established a strong patrol around its area, fearing the Chinese, in attempting to reach the Japanese concession with their guns, might fire over French territory.A score of plain clothes raiders were captured by the Chinese this morning and beheaded. Their heads were exposed on the tops of poles in the city as a warning to others.400 Rebels Captured.
Four hundred rebels who took part in Monday's riots were captured yesterday by Chinese police, who summarily beheaded several of them. The roundup was made in the native city. Estimates at the height of the rioting were that at least 2000 men were involved.
Among those who escaped, police reported, were several leaders.Bursts of rifle fire at the boundary between the Chinese city and the Japanese concession were renewed today; and the Japanese garrison gave evidences of feverish activity. French troops increased their precautions and all pedestrians in the vicinity of the boundary were searched and traffic in the sector was prohibited after 8
p. m.The Chinese were convinced another attack on the city was imminent and large bodies of militia were concentrated in the southern suburbs adjacent to the Japanese concession.During morning fighting the Chinese attacked a section of the city near Nankai School in an attempt to drive out a band of rebels holding there. The attack met with stubborn resistance from the rebels and the firing lasted throughout the night and into the morning, although the damage is thought not to have been great.

The Nankai School is well out

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

Are Women Human?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN RE vesti argumenti ad hominem contra feminas:

Only a gullible gal with a spare postage stamp would reply to that provocative "We Start an Argument" editorial on whether women can do and always have done everything men can do. For years obscure egotists or serious psychologists discussed whether women were as they were because of the lives men had expected them to lead or because of natural differences which made comparisons unfair. Since the question was one of opinion rather than fact, the result was usually a draw.

Now the Post-Dispatch comes out heavily in support of the confession that women can bear children better than men. Is that fair to the men, I ask? Isn't it as fallacious as the inquiry, "Where are the woman Beethovens, Rembrandts and Byrons?" What passive and uncreative spirits these men would have been without women to love or annoy them! And so it would be in the matter of women bearing children. Alone, they are as helpless as an artificial hen. And then, after all, who but chancier does the crowing?

Every once in a while, some misogynist on the Post-Dispatch writes an editorial such as this one, treating woman, lovely woman, as a creature or an emotional experience. Now, I am an ardent admirer of the Post-Dispatch and one reason is because it usually treats women as citizens and makes no bid for a special feminine allegiance. I think that even the columns of special interest to women, those concerning food and beauty culture, appeal alike to women, who are responsible for the household budget and consider beauty a self-imposed duty, as to men, who have an economic interest in selling the canned peaches and vanishing cream. The editorial page is more concerned with utilities than utilities, which makes it just as hard for men to read and understand as women.

On the whole, I think the Post-Dispatch is inclined to treat women as human beings, but nobody could accuse it of playing up to them. It would probably scorn to say it has a "feminine following," as a Chicago newspaper just boasted in a recent advertisement.

But may I suggest that the next time the playboy of the editorial page is out of playing up to them, it would probably scorn to say it has a "feminine following," as a Chicago newspaper just boasted in a recent advertisement.

JUSTITIA.

Opposes Tax on Wrestling and Boxing.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN order to carry on their extravagance as of old, it was suggested by one of our worthy Aldermen that a tax be put on amusements, because the city sends police and firemen out to the Coliseum and Arena to see the show. Why not force the tax and keep the firemen and police at home? I am sure the promoters and owners of the aforesaid places will tell you they don't need them, as they hire and pay enough private watchmen to take care of the property of themselves as well as that of the patron.

Let the city officials who have been receiving from 300 to 325 passes for each boxing or wrestling match in the past five years pay into the city treasury the value of the seats they occupied, and the sum derived will take care of the emergency. A tax of this nature falls back on the poor general public.

NITE RIDER.

Public Farms as Unemployment Relief.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

MANY suggestions have been made for the solution of the unemployment situation. If it is ever solved, the Government will have to obtain state farms and conscript the unemployed and put them to work for the purpose of maintaining themselves. We do not have to resort to Socialism to effect this relief. Many states have county farms now, and the Government has a number of agricultural farms.

Favors the Chain Gang.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WONDER if abolition of the chain gang wouldn't be just another step in the direction of too much consideration for prisoners. Even now, there seems to be so little about prison life to dread that most criminals do not mind being prisoners and, therefore, continue to be criminals.

If more drastic measures were employed (I do not mean inhuman or barbaric measures) the criminally inclined might make an effort to be lawful. It does seem that more consideration is given to the offender than to the offended. The offender must always be protected, but not at the expense of strict discipline and good judgment.

Why be concerned about a prisoner's embarrassment? What thought did he give to the rights, property and even life of another? Not all new ways are best. In the old days, there were fewer prisoners per capita.

Most of us, we are sure, have a better understanding of Europe's difficulties since reading Mr. Lloyd George's article in the Sunday Post-Dispatch. We may have known that, in area, Continental Europe, exclusive of Russia, is smaller than our country by 500,000 square miles; that its population is more than three times as great as ours; that in this territory are 30 separate sovereign states, each with its own central government, army, fortified frontiers and tariff walls erected against all its neighbors, besides the racial and religious differences, the confusion of languages and the legacies of antagonisms and hatreds bequeathed by wars and invasions and plunderings. We may have known all this in a general way, but the British statesman paints it in vivid strokes.

This article was addressed to American readers. Its effect was heightened by a description of a hypothetical America. Thus:

Suppose, for example, that Illinois had to maintain an army, an air force, frontier posts and guards adequate to defend it against attacks by Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Kentucky or Indiana, or combinations of any or all of these, with further states beyond them, and a navy to protect Chicago from the fleet of Michigan.

If, in addition to this bustling panoply of war, our interstate commerce were damned by tariff barriers on every state line, and if we talked a Babel of various tongues and were forever harassed, either by the fear of assault or inflamed with the motive of revenge for an ancient wrong or a fresh grievance—if that were our political and economic structure, we should be in much the same case as Europe.

The contrast, however, has further depths to sound. Financially, the nations of Europe have a burden of internal debts that makes our own national indebtedness of 16 billions seem a comparatively small account.

Such is the plight of Europe. Desperate is not too strong a word for it. Collapse is in the air. Except for the assistance provided by the United States and England, more than one European government would have gone to smash. And the people, we are told, no longer accept their privations and wretchedness in the old spirit of docile resignation. Education is at work in Europe. No longer is complaint whispered. Rebellion speaks out loud. "How much better, then, to bear the ills we have than fly to others that we know not of?" Is a sophistry that is not listened to. A spreading determination is noted to embark upon any experimentation that promises relief—in the conviction that nothing could be worse, that any change might be an improvement. Communism is, of course, what he is predicting.

As Mr. Lloyd George tells it, Europe's plight is reduced to the alternatives of "Disarm or crash."

He tells it well. He is a top-notch correspondent. His articles, with which our readers are familiar, have the background, dignity and clarity of commentaries. In another age, the "little Welsh lawyer" had been a pamphleteer. He can serve today in that capacity. Perhaps he will. Politically, he seems to have reached finis. He might be called the man without a party. In the moving drama of current British politics, he has been regrettably absent, because of illness. But he is looking eagerly forward, as he said in his letter to Sir Herbert Samuel, now official leader of the Liberal remnant, "to the pleasure of co-operating with all those who have at heart the advancement of the ideas to which so many millions hopefully rallied in 1929." One wonders, though, if he might not play a commanding part on a larger stage than that of British politics. He possesses, obviously, the international mind, with the equipment of comprehensive knowledge, rare expressional power and something of authority. That conference in Geneva next February might, with advantage to the world, enroll the talents of Mr. Lloyd George, citizen of Europe.

THE LADY OF GODEY'S.

"The Lady Editor" was the way she signed herself. Lincoln's decree of the first national Thanksgiving crowned her 35-year campaign for such a holiday. She it was who first advocated playgrounds, who commenced the fight for married women's property rights, who opened the first nursery as an aid to working mothers. Vassar, the earliest college of full academic standing for girls, was founded largely through her efforts. Mount Vernon became a national memorial because of her. She established pioneering societies for the restriction of child labor and the improvement of women's working conditions. She recognized sanitation and health promotion as proper civic functions and crusaded for the adoption of the idea. She popularized the term "domestic science," organized groups of medical missionaries, founded the Seaman's Aid and broke down the prejudice of her times against physical activity for women. She was Sarah Josepha Hale, widowed mother of five children, who, as editor of Godey's Lady's Book for 40 years, molded life in grandmother's day. "The Lady of Godey's," her biography by Ruth E. Finley, tells the story of a career which made more impression on America than half a dozen Presidents.

ST. LOUIS DUTY IN THE CHARITIES CAMPAIGN.

ST. LOUIS today is in the midst of its greatest charity campaign, to meet the greatest need the city has known. In a united effort, the Community Fund, which includes 51 agencies, is seeking $2,500,000, and the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Unemployment has a goal of $750,000. These are large amounts, it is true, but they are in proportion to the total of the city's needs. A survey by the Citizens' Committee Nov. 1 showed that St. Louis had 125,000 unemployed. The Census Bureau last January found 94,000 without work; hence, in 10 months there has been an increase of 33 per cent in unemployment. With their families, these unemployed form an appalling large sector of the population. Without assistance, these families face a winter of destitution. If the $3,000,000 goal can be reached, it will be possible to prevent a vast amount of suffering.

Many more of our citizens are in the border line territory: not in need of relief but unable to contribute to the assistance of others. Their slender incomes will barely carry them along, but the contributions they gave to charity in former years can now be made. This narrows the field of givers, and increases the duty of those in position to contribute. The first announcements of donations indicate a praiseworthy trend on the part of the more fortunate to increase their usual gifts. And it is only by this means that the charities goal can be reached. Gov. Pinchot and other spokesmen have recently indicted the wealthy for their meager assistance to the cause of charity. It is to be hoped that these rebukes will not apply to the prosperous citizens of St. Louis when the campaign is ended. The city treasury lacks funds for more than scanty aid this winter, and Federal policy precludes any expectancy of help from that source. Hence the local campaigns, of which two have been successfully concluded, form our last line of defense against a winter of destitution and woe. The third and largest of these drives, now in progress, tests the generosity of St. Louis.

PHILANTHROPY AND DEMOCRACY.

Nearly a billion dollars was spent for philanthropic purposes in the United States during 1930. More than 50 millions of this amount was given away by 91 large foundations, with aggregate capital resources amounting to more than $800,000,000. More than half of this 50 millions was distributed by foundations set up out of the Rockefeller millions. Other large givers were the foundations established by the money of Carnegie, Duke, Rosenwald, Harkness, Guggenheim and Russell Sage. Nearly 20 millions of the 50 was spent on medicine and public health; nearly 15 millions on education. Other large sums went to support research establishments and to assist scholars and artists, who were carrying on independent work. In general, these moneys are not squandered, but are wisely and carefully spent by skillful and experienced givers. There can be no question that they are of incalculable benefit to the people. It might even be argued that such large funds can be distributed more usefully by rich private givers than would be the case if they were spent by the state.

But, if we may be permitted to look society's gift horse in the mouth, we would like to point out that even such magnificent gifts as these constitute but a feeble argument in support of the great extremes of inequality in the distribution of income in our country. The incomes of the 42,618 millionaires who paid Federal income taxes in 1930 amounted to more than $6,000,000,000. The total disbursements of the great foundations in that year were only a fraction of 1 per cent as large as that amount. The 496 fortunate people who enjoyed incomes of more than $1,000,000 each received a total income of more than $1,000,000,000, or an amount 20 times larger than that which the foundations gave away. It exceeded the sum total of all gifts, public and private, big and little, which were made for all purposes during the year.

The money spent by the foundations, moreover, restores to the country each year an amount far smaller than that which is taken from it by the privileged and powerful, through monopoly, in the wasteful exploitation of natural resources and in various forms of financial manipulation. The gifts of the foundations are no argument against vigilant public control of the means by which large private fortunes may be accumulated; not even against the taxation of private incomes at progressively graduated rates.

The state cannot safely leave the promotion of education, public health and research to private paternalism. These are public responsibilities, which must largely be assumed by the people themselves. We must learn how best to help ourselves if we are to achieve progress under the institution of self-government.

It looks as if we would find out this Thanksgiving what Job's turkey tasted like.

WILHELM LOOKS AT MANCHURIA.

In his study at Doorn, the former Kaiser is busy these days moving colored pins and flags about on a huge map of the Far East. His adjutants bring him news dispatches and other information about the Manchurian crisis, and experts from Germany come in for interviews on the subject. It is the pastime of an old man in exile, and of no more importance to the world than the wood he saws. But if Wilhelm sat at Berlin instead of at Doorn, there would be a vast significance in every pin he places.

The Far East always attracted this ambitious imperialist. He coined the phrase, "the yellow peril," which helped for decades to raise the barrier of suspicion between East and West. In an address to troops sailing for service in the Boxer rebellion, he gave his nation a label that clung through the World War, when he bade his soldiers be ruthless as Huns. In another address on expansion in the Orient, he voiced Germany's right to "a place in the sun." Likewise a stock phrase of war days. Reigning at Berlin now, he would be in the thick of the Manchuria dispute, just as he got into the Moroccan row, the Austro-Serbian crisis and came near taking sides in the Boer War. Not colored pins but thousands of German boys doubtless would be the pawns he moved about the map. It was a lucky day for the world when Germany kicked out the Hohenzollerns.

We don't care whom Secretary of State Stimson talks with over the telephone in Rumania so long as it isn't Marie.

"THAR'S GOLD IN THEM THAR SIDEWALKS."

During the four years that George W. Olvany was Tammany chieftain, the law firm of which he was senior partner had an income of some $2,000,000. Whether such an income is extraordinary for a New York law firm we are, of course, unable to say, but as a Tammany increment it does not seem to be excessive, judging from the data that have been oozing out of the arcanes. After all, a big city law firm today is almost institutional. The names on the glass panel compare numerically with the graduating class of a fresh water college, or a list of casualties, or the personnel of a world series baseball team. Regardless of how the emoluments are divided, it requires a good deal of money to maintain the organization. The Olvany honorarium, therefore, when examined in this light, does not seem ostentatious. It is less impressive, to our way of thinking, than the million acquired by the veterinarian, Dr. Doyle, who officially never prescribed so much as an aspirin tablet for a horse with a hangover, and as an adventure in thrift it rather pales beside the $600,000 deposited by that Deputy Sheriff. But the Seabury Committee thinks this is a page of prosperity it would like to scan, and pending its report we have nothing to say—not a word—except that Tammany still contrives to find gold in paying quantities on The Sidewalks of New York.

The Infanta Eulalia of Spain has a grandson who wants to get married, and, having no money, she is going to sell her jewels to finance the wedding, and there are lots of folks over here who can sympathize with this grandmother and would be in the fix Eulalia is in if they had any jewels to sell.

NO ARMISTICE ON THIS FRONT.

Thoughts on Armistice Day

World is still paying for war, 13 years after it ended; economic aftermath has brought such misery that some leaders are flirting with idea of another conflict for temporary relief from depression; their failure to realize the cost and the growth of armaments indicate that the lessons of the 1914-18 holocaust have not been learned.

Dr. Harry Elmer Barnes in the Thinker.

THIRTEEN years ago, Germany accepted the armistice terms offered by President Wilson. These embraced his famous 14 points, designed to bring about a peace of justice and good will. After nearly two decades, the states of Europe are more anxiously engaged in trying to undo the evil effects of the war and the subsequent peace than at any time since Aug. 1, 1914. This may be a propitious moment to try to draw a few lessons that may be of help in charting our future.

How about the ideals for which we poured out blood and money? Have the noble issues set forth by Mr. Wilson in 1917 and 1918 been realized? The war to end war and armaments failed to materialize. Last year the world spent $4,155,000,000 for armaments, 100,000,000 more than the year before. France and her allies have a military strength amounting to more than 49 to 1 against their old enemies. No such military preponderance has been known since Julius Caesar's day. France still struts as a victor at a moment when good will is needed to save humanity.

Nor was the world made safe for democracy. Between plutocracy, Communism and Fascism, democracy is in greater disrepute and searier than at any other time since the revolutions of 1848. Nor have the rights of small nations and self-determination fared much better. New peoples have passed under the yoke. The oppressed have become the oppressors.

Security, if there is any, is still procured by sheer military force or diplomatic duplicity. The peace of justice, proclaimed by Mr. Wilson, turned out to be one of the most vindictive settlements in human history, from the destructive results of which our alarmed leaders are right now desperately endeavoring to rescue the Western world. The 14 points were betrayed and rejected. Once the Germans had stacked their arms, there was no thought of keeping faith with them. The secret treaties were brought out of the cellar, and the bargaining for spoils began.

Such are the fruits of the four years of fury and the 13 years of folly. There is little use of crying over spilled milk. But it is not too much to hope that a lesson might be learned and so plain as this can end policies designed to lead to a tragedy as great or greater than that which started 17 years ago.

The thirteenth anniversary of the end of the "war to end war" thus invites serious consideration. We find much of the civilized world in a state of such abject misery that many leaders, secretly or openly, are considering the possibility of another war as a temporary relief from the economic depression. That is probably the chief danger in the European situation today. Things may get bad enough so that, in sheer desperation, peoples will turn to war as the only practical and rapid way out of their economic suffering. Though those who lived through the World War remember its horrors, they also remember that they ate and had a life full of vast excitement. To many the battle line seems less horrible than the bread line.

Yet a little reflection on the costs and

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.

THE reputation of Senator George Moses of New Hampshire around Washington is based partly on the fact that his shrewd and caustic wit are capable of so much devastation in debate. Let the fiery and bespectacled Moses loose at any time in the Senate, and there is sure to be seen a pyrotechnic display that is a joy to behold and hear.

Then there's another job the Senator does around the Capitol, about which little is heard. He brings to it an enthusiasm which at times takes on the appearance of a passion. The job is that of housekeeper for his colleagues in the Senate Office Building. As chairman of the Rules Committee, he is charged with the duty of keeping the office building in order.

To hear him tell it, previous housekeepers of the Senate must certainly have been negligent. After his first inspection, he let it be known that the building hadn't been properly cleaned from the time it was first occupied.

He started right in to remedy the situation. He made the Senate increase his allowance from $98,000 to $128,000. He hired a small army of charwomen and gave orders that the white marble floors and walls were to be scrubbed until they shone and that they be kept that way. He had the rugs in the Senators' offices pulled out and sent to the cleaners. When one Senator thanked him for new rugs, Moses proudly told him they were his old ones washed, and that no new rugs had been bought since the building was first put in use.

SENATOR MOSES declared war on cockroaches, and, though some Senators remarked that they had never seen any in their offices, he proceeded to show them. Today he says proudly that there is not a cockroach in the building, and he defies a Senator to produce one.

Dirty mops have been outlawed. Shining brass cloths adorn the corridors. Women with cloths parade the halls and offices, searching for specks of dust. There is a pervading atmosphere of cleanliness and "spickiness and spanness" wherever one turns.

PRISON REFORM IN REVERSE.

From the San Francisco Call-Bulletin.

MAKE prisons and police stations the most horrible places on earth," advises Gen. Smidley Butler. "If you make them so, the criminals will try to stay out of them. I have not yet heard of an honest person getting the third degree."

Gen. Butler has been around, but he hasn't been in the right places nor read the right histories of crime. The world for centuries tried making prisons the most "horrible places on earth," but somehow it didn't seem to work. Theft went on, though men were hanged for stealing sheep or a crust of bread. One result of making police stations the most horrible places on earth, in which men are beaten and tortured, is that brave police officers are killed by law breakers who dread the bill of the gallows or the electric chair. And, though the General has heard of an honest person getting the third degree, has happened.

revolution. In the pre-war days women not only went into battle with their revolutionary husbands; they were also active conspirators in some of the most dangerous undertakings. The Communists efforts are still meeting resistance.

particularly in the Asiatic reaches of the Union, where the men object to the breaking up of the harems and the unveiling of women's faces. The law, however, is on the side of the women. The Soviet efforts are not the result of a petty rivalry, such as one finds in France which retains, however, its Code Napoleon. They are based on a fundamental conception of women as co-partners in the industrial and governmental development of the Union. (To Be Continued).

ST. LOUIS 'GOUGED' IN PRICE OF MILK, CHICAGOAN SAYS

D. N. Geyer Makes Assertion at National Co-Operative Producers' Federation Convention.

St. Louis milk consumers are "gouged" at 11 cents a quart, Don N. Geyer, secretary-manager of the Chicago Pure Milk Association, declared at the convention of the National Co-operative Milk Producers' Federation, representing 274,000 farmers, yesterday at Hotel Statler.

Geyer obtained permission to make his statement in answer to repeated accusations by Pevelly Dairy Co. or its president, Dan C. Kerckhoff, that Geyer had spoken for the striking Sanitary Milk Producers in refusing to accept a price formula based on the Chicago market plus a premium—$1 a hundred pounds was named—for milk used for fluid purposes. From this the implication has been made that "Chicago was speaking for St. Louis," and that the course of the milk market in Chicago, following organization of the co-operative there, would be duplicated here.

Reads Pevelly Statement.

The Chicago organizer read from a Pevelly "Statement of Facts" the charge that, when Kerckhoff outlined his price formula, making the price subject to fluctuations of supply and demand, at a conference in the Illinois Agriculture Department offices, Geyer said the Sanitary Producers would not accept it before any representative of the Sanitary Producers had time to reply. This, the statement continued, left the impression that the producers meant to fix the price "arbitrarily" and not "scientifically."

Geyer read an assertion of the dairy that the only object of the Sanitary Producers was to get control of the market and then "export the maximum toll that the public will stand. Do not take our word for it, make a study of the conditions in Chicago, and you will find that these statements are correct."

"The fact is," Geyer declared, "that I attended the conference by invitation of the Director of Agriculture and, after my name had been brought into the discussion repeatedly by Kerckhoff, who said that he would not accept the farmers' organization would accept a price of $1 over butter, because he would be getting more than his product was worth at times and less at other times. The joke is that is that it would leave the distributor free to charge the public whatever he pleased with no relation whatever to what he paid the farmer."

Milk Prices in Chicago.

"Kerckhoff has repeatedly charged the Pure Milk Association with drawing a line around Chicago, so that farmers outside that line could not ship to Chicago dealers, in order to create a monopoly and gouge the Chicago public.

"Chicago consumers were paying 14 cents a quart for milk before the association was organized, when prices were determined by the dealers' profits, and the dealers were paying $2.50 a hundred pounds. In 1929 an arbitrator raised the price to producers to $2.65. The association then, not arbitrarily, but after conference with dealers and consumers, raised that price another 10 cents a hundred, not on the strength of a monopoly but on the basis of supply and demand, cost of production, and the ability of dealers to find cheaper milk of similar quality anywhere.

"The consumers paid no more for milk at any time. Those increases were taken, not from labor, but out of the consumers' pockets, but out of the spread between retail price and price to producers. Voluntarily, on Jan. 1 this year, our association and distributors lowered the retail price to 13 cents a quart, and that reduction was shouldered by the association.

Difference in Wages.

"Wagon drivers here, I understand, get $33 a week. In Chicago they get $31 for six days, with two weeks' vacation on pay each year. I do not believe there is any proportion.

men from the Fort placed at every 100 paces along the route saluted the President and his two service chiefs as they passed.

Past the amphitheater, the President paused on the marble steps leading to the tomb while the Army band played the Star Spangled Banner. He then walked to the tomb and took the wreath from a soldier. Marines, sailors and soldiers on the left front and right sides of the tomb snapped to present arms as the President walked toward the marble slab over the grave. Laying the wreath on the tomb, he stepped back four paces, bowed his head and remained silent for several moments.

Rejoining his party, the President nodded to Mrs. Hoover, who stepped to the tomb, placed her floral tribute on it and stood for a moment with head bowed. A 21-gun salute was given as the party re-entered their cars.

Speeding back across the Potomac to the Deric temple set up in Potomac Park, the President delivered his armistice day message.

Pershing and Sousa There.

Nearby sat Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the American forces abroad, who relayed the cease-firing call 13 years ago. During the introduction of the President by Frank B. Noyes, publisher of the Washington Star and president of the Associated Press, the Keeping Supply Level.

Heap described several variations of the fundamental plan, under which each farmer's "base" is determined by the amount he ships at the low production season. All above that amount goes at the lower "surplus" price, and whenever he ships less during the shortage season, he loses his base and has to start all over again. These penalties, Heap said, assured the dealer of a steady and dependable supply, and the producers could fairly ask for a larger share of the consumer's dollar, since it could be taken out of the money otherwise wasted in dumping excess milk in the sewer or shipping in from distant sources in time of shortage.

Prospects of united support of the striking Sanitary Milk Producers by the Federation of 55 co-operative organizations, and encouragement by W. F. Schilling of the Federal Farm Board, were developed yesterday's sessions of the convention, which will close tomorrow. E. W. Tiedeman, president of the local co-operative, outlined the strike issues, and was promised the vigorous backing of the national organization.

Schilling, the dairy member of the Farm Board, speaking at the annual dinner last night at Hotel Statler, where Tiedeman was toastmaster, said that St. Louis was a Federal Reserve City, and the lamentable exception to the many cities where dealers and producers were "working hand in hand for the common good," and that the situation was "all the more deplorable" because the National Dairy Show, typifying "the very essence of co-operative organization."

"Problems Not Insurmountable."

But, said Schilling, "experience has shown that the problems were not insurmountable. My own experience in the Twin City market leads me to exactly the same conclusion. We were arrested and placed under indictment for organizing the Twin City Milk Producers' Association. We had the opposition of every known interest to put over that marketing organization. The dealers had us arrested; the women's clubs and mothers' clubs condemned us; and the farmers had to be shown before they would follow us. But now that it is all over the farmers, consumers and all concerned are better satisfied. The consumers get better milk at a fair price and the farmers have a more satisfactory marketing arrangement and are better paid for their labor.

"If you ask me for my advice in the present circumstances, I would carry on your organization movement. The farmer who is blocking organization programs is his own worst enemy, and should not complain that he has no voice in establishing the price of his dairy products."

INJUNCTION ISSUED.

A permanent injunction against violence in the milk strike was issued yesterday by Federal Judge Wham at East St. Louis on application of the Pevelly Dairy Co. Wham advised the defendants to study the comments on the "unprecedented era" of shootings, milk dumping, arson and destruction of property, made from the bench by Federal Judge FitzHenry recently at Springfield, Ill., in making a similar injunction permanent.

The only outbreak reported in several days occurred in Missouri, where Federal Judge Davis also has issued an injunction.

into the country, west of the Japanese concession and is not to be confused with the Nankai University, which is a mile and a half away.

The rebel leaders whose headquarters were established near the Japanese concession vanished for the most part yesterday and took no active part in today's fighting.

In the western part of the city, near where today's fighting occurred, the Chinese sentiment was said to be growing very bitter against the Japanese, who were blamed for the trouble. During the first attack of the rebels a district police station was captured, after which Japanese flags were hoisted over the protest of the Chinese Mayor.

Reports that Japanese marines were to be landed and that a destroyer was coming up the river were said today to have no foundation.

MERCURY AND GOLD DEPOSITS FOUND IN MEXICAN SIERRAS

Both Discoveries Along Sinaloa-Durango Border Reported to Be Very Rich.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 11.—Discoveries of rich mercury and gold deposits in the isolated high Sierras along the Sinaloa-Durango border was reported today.

A dispatch from Durango says an extremely rich mercury find has been made in the property of the Santa Rita Mining Co. along the Colorado ridge, near Santa Maria del Oro, Durango. The correspondent says claim stakers operating on the edge of the field thought the deposits were of great value.

Near San Ignacio, it is reported, miners washed out 11 pounds of gold, worth $4000, on the first day in the new Tambora field discovered four days ago.

Placer miners are said to be losing 40 per cent of the gold because of their crude plans and the speed with which they were combing the area. The two reported finds are less than 100 miles apart.

AMERICAN SCHOOL IN MEXICO ASSAILED AS 'IMPERIALISTIC'

Its Credits Should Not Be Recognized by National University, Educator Says.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 11.—Asserting that the American school here is "an imperialistic advance" of the United States and that its textbooks defame Mexico, Luis Chilo Goerne, member of the faculty of the University of Mexico, demanded today that the university refuse to recognize the American school's credits.

The demand was made on the university council which is meeting to determine what secondary schools shall be recognized.

The American school was founded here about 10 years ago and has an enrollment of about 700, the majority of which is Mexican. Twenty-three nationalities attend the school. Several hundred textbooks were seized at the school 18 months ago and destroyed because of passages said to be unfair to Mexico.

visement Proposal to Abandon Car Line.

The application of the Public Service Co. to abandon the Natural Bridge car line was taken under advisement by Chairman Stahl of the State Public Service Commission following a hearing at City Hall yesterday at which representatives of various business organizations voiced opposition to the proposed substitution of busses for street car service.

The city is preparing to widen Natural Bridge avenue from 60 to 100 feet between Palm street and the city limits. This would necessitate re-location of the street car tracks and the paving of a portion of the street at a cost to the Public Service Co. of $245,000, Sam W. Greenland, general manager of the Public Service Co., testified that the company did not have the money, and would derive no benefit from the expenditure.

Greenland said the company planned to substitute busses for street cars, providing a through service from Twelfth boulevard to Pine Lawn. He explained that the busses, costing about $12,000 each, could be paid for out of earnings, and would become company assets.

Demand for Car Service.

Albert Schmidt, 2928 Natural Bridge avenue, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the North St. Louis Business Men's Association, spoke in opposition to the application, stating that the directors of the business association had adopted a resolution condemning the proposed change in transportation.

Schmidt pointed out that street car service is in demand for a portion of the 3000 students of Beaumont High School, located on Natural Bridge, at Prairie avenue, and for thousands of persons going to the swimming pool in Fairground Park during the summer. He suggested that the Public Service Commission give careful consideration to the application before throwing the entire cost of paving Natural Bridge on property owners.

Other opposition speakers included William Schene of the Natural Bridge Business Men's Association; Thomas Foley, Northwest St. Louis Improvement Association, and William H. Seasinghaus of the White Way Association.

Greenland explained in his testimony that 20 street cars, each seating 40 persons and with standing room for an equal number, are operated at six-minute intervals over the line during the peak periods. He said it was planned to use 27 busses, with a seating capacity of 48 persons and standing room for about half that number during the rush hours.

He explained that the bus schedule would be 31 minutes from Pine Lawn to Twelfth boulevard, as compared with 36 minutes for the present combined bus and street car service from Pine Lawn to the downtown district. Greenland also asserted that the operation of street cars in the widened street would be hazardous, while busses could draw up to the curb to take on and discharge passengers.

Pine Lawn Merchants for Plan.

When it was pointed out that Greenland's statement covering the comparative capacities of the street cars and busses was favorable to street cars, he said that the company would operate as many busses as were required. He expressed the opinion that the present street car service exceeds requirements.

Twenty merchants of Pine Lawn and vicinity presented statements favoring a through bus service downtown. About 125 persons attended the hearing.

Of course CAMELS are fresh

They are never parched or toasted!

ONCE you have tasted the delights of a fresh cigarette you will never be content with any other kind.

For freshness, in the kind of tobaccos that go into Camels, means mildness, and flavor, and fragrance—smooth, cool-burning, mellow throat-joy.

Camels are fresh—fresh with natural moisture—fresh in nature's own mild way.

The fine Turkish and mild sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos of which they are blended are never parched or toasted—hence they retain natural moisture and delicate flavors which otherwise would be lost.

The Camel Humidor Pack insures that a fine cigarette is kept always fine—it air-seals freshness and fragrance to you for your enjoyment.

If you are throat-weary of harsh, hot, dry-as-dust, strong tobaccos, switch to fresh Camels for just one day—then leave them, if you can!

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO COMPANY, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Don't remove the moisture-proof wrapping from your package of Camels after you open it. The Camel Humidor Pack is protection against perfume and powder odors, dust and germs. In offices and homes, even in the dry atmosphere of artificial heat, the Camel Humidor Pack delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until the last one has been smoked.

U. S. DELEGATE FOR WORLD BAN ON OPIUM SMOKING TRAFFIC

Other Nations at League Meeting at Bangkok Asked to Follow American Plan.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—World wide prohibition of the traffic in "smoking opium" was called for today by the United States through John K. Caldwell, its representative at an international conference at Bangkok, Siam. In the American delegate's statement, made public at the State Department, other Governments were urged to follow the example of the United States in placing an absolute ban on the traffic rather than to attempt restriction through a Government monopoly.

The Bangkok conference was called by the League of Nations. The United States was invited to attend, because it is a party to the Hague convention of 1912 on the same subject.

Caldwell pointed out that, under the Hague convention, this Government has imposed complete statutory prohibition on prepared opium.

NEW ORLEANS POLICE READ OUT

Attacked by Politicians for Leaving Gambling Ranks.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 11.—Col. H. B. Myers resigned today as superintendent of the New Orleans Police Department.

Myers' resignation came after an attack from politicians who claimed he was not eligible to hold the office as he had not resided in New Orleans the legally required 19 years. Col. Myers was appointed superintendent in May, 1929, by Mayor T. Semmes Wainwright after he had resigned from the army. He formerly lived in Memphis. In recent weeks Col. Myers had directed raids against race horse handbooks, lottery shops and other gambling establishments.

CAREY DOES NOT WANT MALONE OR WILSON OF CUBS

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK Nov. 11.—There are no fixtures in the Brooklyn Robins' lineup in the eyes of Maxmillian Canarius, better known to the baseball world as Max Carey.

The new pilot of the Robins, in his first conference with newspapermen since his appointment to succeed Wilbert Robinson, said he'd trade anybody on the club if he thought he could gain strength.

"We've got a bunch of good baseball players," said Max, "but I'll trade any one of them in a

"I might take a chance on them at the waiver price," said Max, "but I wouldn't pay big money for them nor exchange any of my stars for them."

Carey took some of the boys by surprise when he announced he wanted to strengthen the pitching staff, particularly the southpaw

"We have some fine right handers," he said, "but need a couple of southpaws. There are several rookies who might fill the bill."

This despite the fact that it was three southpaws, William Watson Clark, Joe Shaute and Fred Helmauch, who did most of the winning for the Robins last season, while the right handers, notably Dazzy Vance and Babe Phelps, were sad disappointments.

LOUGHRAN RULES 8-5

CHOICE TO WIN FROM SPANISH HEAVYWEIGHT

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Tommy Loughran, here today to complete training for his bout with Pauline Uzdun Friday night in Madison Square Garden, thinks he can knock out the Basque where Max Schmeling failed. The odds are 10 to 1 that he won't, but Tom is an 8 to 5 favorite to win on points.

If Charley Retzlaff, Minneapolis farmer boy, can take care of Giotto como Bergomas in the semi-final bout on the Loughran-Paulina card he is in line for the "big time." "He then will get plenty of action this winter," Jimmy Johnston said today. "There is plenty of color to the big green kid and if he comes through Friday he should provide the dreadnaughts with a lot of trouble."

This is a vertical, high-contrast black and white image. It appears to be a close-up of a textured surface, possibly a book cover or a piece of paper. The left side is a light, textured area, while the right side is a dark, irregular border. The overall image is very narrow and has a grainy, high-contrast quality.

HEAVY TONE MARKS CLOSE OF A MARKET STOCK

Wave of Profit Taking Subsidies But Efforts to Generate a Rally Are Fruitless—Numerous 1 to 2 Point Losses.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The wave of profit-taking subsided in today's stock market, but efforts to generate a rally were again fruitless. There was a heavy tone to the market, and the tone was heavy. The turnover was only around a million and a half shares.

The grain markets were closed in observance of Armistice day, so silver was left to set the pace for commodities, and did so with a slump. Bonds were under pressure in spots, but some of the foreign issues were well bought, notably United Kingdom 5's, and the Japanese issues. German and Argentine issues were reactionary.

In the share market, rails had intervals of strength, but generally closed with small losses. Coppers were also under pressure. Anatolia closed nearly 2 points. Radio was a soft spot, also losing nearly 2, but recovering a little in the late trading. Eastman recovered an early loss on announcement of the regular extra dividend. Miscellaneous shares closing a point or lower included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Westinghouse, Du Pont, General Electric, Southern Pacific and N. Y. Central. U. S. Industrial Alcohol was a strong spot, gaining 2 points.

Sporadic efforts to rally the rail shares were accompanied by gossip over the national gathering of railway executives here later in the week. While foreign exchanges are slated for Friday, preliminary meetings are expected for tomorrow.

Selling of the copper issues not only reflected the break in silver, but the continued lack of an agreement between leading producers who have been in New York for weeks discussing measures of stabilization. Most of the leading copper producers, notably Anaconda, received a small advance in their earnings from silver, although most of the copper producers also produce some of the more precious metal.

Iron Age's dividend gain in steel production for the third consecutive week, estimating the current ratio at 31 per cent against 30 per cent a week ago. The rise in commodity prices, the review said, has had a favorable psychological effect, but industry is inclined to view the rapidity of the advance as somewhat speculative and has not lost its sense of caution.

Car loadings were off 23,010 in the last week of October, which was roughly the amount of the normal decline to be expected at this season. Figures for the first week in November were important, since they should show whether grain moved during the seasonal price advance.

The cotton market held up fairly well, closing barely steady with losses of 25 to 30 cents a bale. Bar silver, which advanced yesterday in spite of a break in futures, fell back nearly 2 cents today.

In foreign exchanges, the Shanghai fell, the silver currency, lost 1 1/2 cents, but the Argentine peso was steady, and the German mark firm, despite the action of the bonds. Sterling cables ruled at $2.80, off 1/2 cent.

Austrian Bank Rate Cut.
By the Associated Press.
VIENNA, Nov. 11.—The Austrian National Bank lowered its discount rate today from 10 per cent to 8 per cent.

Orders 20 Freight Locomotives.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The Lehigh Valley Railroad has placed an order for 20 high-speed freight locomotives, divided equally between the American Locomotive Co. and the Baldwin Locomotive works.

The order is the largest for railway locomotives placed this year. The new engines will be delivered to the Lehigh Railroad early next year.

FINANCIAL NOTES
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Stockholders of American Locomotive Co. of America, Pittsburgh, have approved a plan to merge the two companies, subject to approval of the Federal Reserve Board. The consolidation of the two companies would result in a new company, the American Locomotive and Engineering Co.

The Studebaker Corp. has placed a machine tool order amounting to $200,000, with other orders to follow. The order is for the production of a building containing 100,000 square feet of floor space.

$6,031,500 TURNED BACKINTO ILLINOIS TREASURY

Was Part of Sum Appropriated for State Executive Departments and Commissions.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 11.—A total of $6,031,500 appropriated for the State executive departments and commissions by the Fifty-sixth General Assembly has been turned back into the State Treasury by Gov. Louis L. Emerson, it was announced today by James A. Watson, superintendent of the budget.

Of the total savings, Watson pointed out, $1,186,982 was represented in salary appropriations that lapsed last September. In addition there was a total of $666,235 of operations appropriations that lapsed, while the total of unused portions of other appropriations was $4,231,283.

ILLINOIS POSTOFFICE BURNS

Rudement Postmaster Used Kerosene to Start Fire in Store.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 11.—Howard Parks, Postmaster, who operates a general store and filling station, kindled a fire with kerosene Monday and an explosion resulted. As the only telephone in the town was in the store, Parks had to drive two miles to call the fire department. When firemen arrived the building had burned to the ground.

Grand Jury Meets at Carlyle.

Corn

Drop FREEZONE on that seething corn. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift the corn right off with the fingers. You'll laugh, really! It is so easy and doesn't hurt one bit. Works like a charm, every time.

A tiny bottle of FREEZONE costs only a few cents at any drug store, and is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, and calluses. Try it—today!

ALL DRUGGISTS

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—inactive liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c. Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

Quick Relief for Common Coughs, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up severe coughs due to colds. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief in a hurry.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it in pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of incipient bronchial coughs and other severe coughs due to colds.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

SHARTEL SUGGESTS SPECIAL SESSION

Favors Calling Legislature to Pass Redistricting Measure.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 11.—Attorney-General Sharitel today expressed the opinion that the best way to settle the redistricting controversy would be to hold a special session of the Legislature, for the sole purpose of passing an act to fix the boundaries of the State's 13 new congressional districts.

Before holding such a session, Sharitel said, it would be desirable to have an agreement of the Republican and Democratic party leaders, in the Legislature and in the State, as to the measure to be enacted, and as to the length of the session. The Governor, in calling a special session, has power to prescribe the subject or subjects on which it shall act, but has no power to fix the length of the session.

Gov. Caulfield said today he had no comment to make on Sharitel's announcement. He said some time ago that a special session might be desirable, if an agreement on its action could be reached in advance. In his veto of the redistricting measure passed by the Legislature, he held it to be unfair, in that it created, according to estimates of the vote, eight Democratic and five Republican districts. He thought the Democratic majority in the Legislature, while naturally seeking an advantage, should be willing to give the Republicans a seven-six break.

Secretary of State Becker today filed his formal answer, in the Supreme Court, to the mandamus suit instituted by John J. Carroll of St. Louis. Carroll charges that the Governor's veto was void, and that the 13 new districts are now in existence. He seeks to run in the new Ninth district as a Democrat, and asks that Becker be required to accept his filing.

Carroll's attorneys contend that under the Federal act covering congressional apportionments, the Legislatures of the several states shall prescribe the districts, and the redistricting act of the Legislature does not require the signature of the Governor.

In his answer, Becker contends no valid redistricting act exists, since the measure enacted was vetoed by the Governor. He said he had no authority to accept declarations of candidacy for party nominations for Representative in Congress from any of the districts proposed in the vetoed measure. He contends that under existing conditions candidates for Congress must run at large in the State, instead of within districts.

PROF. L. M. DEFOE TO RETIRE AFTER 40 YEARS AT MISSOURI

Made Emeritus Member of Faculty; Will Teach Through Present School Year.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 11.—The title of emeritus professor has been bestowed upon Luther M. Defoe, teacher of mechanics in engineering at the University of Missouri, who recently completed 40 years' continuous service on the faculty.

"Daddy" Defoe, as everyone knows him, plans to retire from active teaching at the end of the present school year, but will remain in the faculty in an advisory capacity.

A few years ago the engineering professor was acclaimed by alumni and former students of the university as a most popular member of the Missouri faculty.

"I have found that it never pays to act in haste when passing judgment on a student," he says. "Usually those things we become most upset about are the trivial things, and the things that seem to carry public opinion on one side or another. The opinion of others, particularly outsiders, has never bothered me in my decisions with regard to students."

Defoe becomes the fifth professor emeritus on the faculty. The others are John R. Scott, William H. Fommer, John Pickard and B. F. Hoffman.

GIRL, FOUR YEARS IN CLOSET, PLACED UNDER TREATMENT

Edith Riley, 13, to Receive Medical Care at Hospital for Six Months, by Court Order.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Six months' treatment at Gallinger Hospital was ordered by Judge Kathryn Sellers of Juvenile Court today for 13-year-old Edith Riley, who is recovering at the institution from confinement in a closet in her parents' home over a period of four years.

Holding court in the hospital, auditorium, Judge Sellers ordered the girl placed under the care of the Board of Public Welfare.

Edith's 15-year-old brother, Francis, was given into the custody of his aunt, Mrs. Louise Hall, Counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Harry N. Riley, father and stepmother of the children, objected to the boy's transfer on the ground that he might be influenced against his parents and prejudice the case against them. They are charged with cruelty.

Francis answered "no" when Judge Sellers asked him if he wanted to continue to live with his parents.

240 IN MISSOURI KILLEDBY AUTOS IN NINE MONTHS

State Highway Department Reports 2645 Persons Injured in 2365 Accidents.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 11.—Automobile accidents took 240 lives in Missouri during the first nine months of 1931, a report by the State Highway Department revealed. Sixty-eight persons were killed outright and 172 died from injuries. During the period covered by the report there were 2365 accidents in Missouri, resulting in injury to 2645 persons.

St. Louis led other cities of the state with 269 mishaps. Kansas City was next with 156. St. Joseph had 84 and Jefferson City 41. Other towns in the state reported 789 accidents. Eight hundred and eight accidents were on state highways and 178 on county roads. Drivers who fled figured in 85 accidents. Eight hundred and thirty-four accidents were collisions between automobiles and trucks or busses. Two hundred and fifty-five pedestrians were hit; 256 cars turned over and 167 cars went into a ditch.

CHARLES E. NEELEY, RETIREDLUMBER MANUFACTURER, DIES

Success at 81 After Four Months' Illness; Funeral Friday in Carlinville, Ill.

Charles E. Neeley, 81 years old, retired lumber manufacturer, died today in Jewish Hospital of infirmities of age. He had been in the hospital more than four months. His wife died two years ago. Mr. Neeley is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Samuel W. Reburn of New York.

Mr. Neeley lived in recent years at Hotel Chase. He was president until last April of the South Arkansas Lumber Co., with offices in the Pullerton Building. In earlier years he was a railroad telegrapher in Arkansas, and left this work to engage in the lumber business and in railroad building. He was one of a group which built the line from Eldorado, Ark., to Winfield, La., now a branch of the Rock Island.

The funeral will be held at the home of a sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank McClure, in Carlinville, Ill., at 2 p. m. Friday, with interment at Carlinville. The Rev. Dr. Arnold H. Lowe, pastor of Kingshighway Presbyterian Church, St. Louis, will conduct the funeral, and a group of friends from this city will be present.

Woman Forger Pleads Guilty.

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 11.—Mrs. Inez Hamlin, Howard City, Mich., mother of five children, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of forgery and asked for probation. Judge Frank B. Leonard took the case under advisement. Mrs. Hamlin said she had passed worthless checks in Champaign, Tuscola, Decatur and Franklin.

HUNTERS ASKED TO SHOOTDUCKS ONLY FOR OWN USE

Illinois Izaak Walton League, Urging Conservation, Says Majority of Birds Shot Are Given Away.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Pointing to reports indicating a shortage of waterfowl this fall, the Izaak Walton League asks sportsmen not to take too many limits in order to give ducks to friends.

The League estimates more ducks are eaten by nonshooters than by duck hunters, as a result of generosity of hunters. This fall, in view of the reported waterfowl shortage, many sportsmen are curtailing their distribution of ducks. Conservationists are urging all waterfowl hunters to do the same.

Another suggestion is that long range shooting be discouraged. Long shots invariably result in slightly wing-tipped birds, League officials explain. Although the duck may be hit, it often can get too far away to be recovered.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE.

JULIE became conscious of eyes cast in her direction. She felt, rather than heard, a buzz of voices and knew that they spoke of her. For a moment she felt that quick embarrassment which comes from finding oneself the cynosure of attention which she cannot quite understand. She felt at the shoulder-strap of her frock, glanced swiftly down at her skirts . . .

Then, amused at her own misgivings, she realized that her picture had been printed in the papers yesterday—and again today—and that waiters, always eager to increase the attractions of the place in which they work, had unquestionably pointed her out, to all who had not recognized her, as the Julie Treherne who had danced with Farrell on the night of his sudden success.

This was fame, Broadway's fame, and she knew that Broadway's fame burned brighter—though more briefly—than any other fame. And then a roll of drums announced the presence of Jimmy Farrell.

He was greeted with tumultuous applause and went into his airplane dance immediately. It was received boisterously, and at its finish half the audience looked inquiringly at Julie.

But a young woman, hardly more than a girl, appeared at Jimmy's side. He lifted his hand in silence. "My partner, Miss Natalie Gray," he announced, "who has just returned to join me, and will appear with me from now on."

Now, nothing in the world would have tempted Julie to dance with Jimmy tonight. An instinctive understanding of his nice perceptions had made her fully aware that he would not dream of asking her again. Yet, when eyes had been turned upon her, she had felt a quick embarrassed alarm.

But now, when Jimmy slid into his airplane glide with Miss Gray, Julie felt an unwarranted resentment. It was, she realized, a dog-in-the-manger attitude, but she couldn't help it.

Also, she felt an unnecessary envy of the girl. She saw at once the difference between her own amateur efforts and the work of the trained professional. This girl, while not at all extraordinary when compared to other professionals, was amazing when compared to the most gifted amateur. Then Jimmy sang and completed the conquest of the audience. Make-up removed, he forced his way, 10 minutes later, through a canteen of detaining hands, to the table where his party awaited him. Tim Bond and Trudie were now dancing, and courties had held Dolly and Livingston at the table. But now that Jimmy had joined Julie, the red-faced Livingston and the vividly blond Dolly joined the dancers.

"LIKE to dance, Julie?" asked Jimmy.

"When did your partner return?" asked Julie.

Jimmy grinned.

"I don't believe her mother was as sick as she let on. I think she had a hunch that our act was going to be a bust, and sort of stepped out on me. But they get the New York papers in Boston—that's where she'd gone, and she was waiting in my dressing room tonight."

"But your manager, Mr. Bleeker, said you were going to be a single from now on," said Julie.

Jimmy shrugged.

"Well, need a girl for my dancing. I was looking for the field over. As long as I stay here, I'll keep her on. At that, she's darned good, don't you think?"

"Do you think she's pretty?" asked Julie, irrelevantly.

"Kind of," said Jimmy. Do you?

She avoided this second question to make reply to the first.

"She's really a very good dancer," she said judiciously.

"Not as good as you'd be with some training," said Jimmy.

Now that he said this, she was prepared to grant Miss Gray even more than her due.

"Don't be ridiculous. I could never dance as she does."

"Any more than she could be as beautiful as you," said Jimmy.

"Oh, I think she's extraordinarily pretty," said Julie.

"Now I'll give you my hymn of praise about Natalie—don't, Julie, stare at him like that."

"What do you mean by that?" she asked.

"Aw, I was just kidding, being kind of fresh. I was pretending you were jealous of Natalie—don't scold me, Julie, and don't give me that frozen eye. I've got to make some kind of talk. You know how it is, Julie. Here I am, out of my mind—well, look who's here!" he gasped.

Julie looked up. There, smiling at her, was her father. Unaccompanied, distinguished-looking in tails, he looked as out of place in a night club as any one could be. He met Jimmy's stammered greeting with cool cordiality.

"HOPE I'm not too late to see you dance, Mr. Farrell," he said.

"Why I just quit—but say, Mr. Treherne, I'll put on a special number for you, if you like."

"You'd do nothing of the sort, Jimmy," interposed Julie. "You don't go on again until 2 o'clock."

"I guess like Treherne don't object to my doing an extra turn," grinned Jimmy.

"But I wouldn't permit it, Mr. Farrell," said Treherne. "If I can't wait until the regular hour—here are other evenings. I understand that you'll be here a long time," he added, smiling.

"And if he stayed here five years I wouldn't have thought that long enough to wait for your arrival here," commented Julie. "Since

The plainer these are, the better, because large patterns around the death knell of style for the stouthead lady you may have become.

In point of color there is none so slenderizing as black. Black satin has an elegance and distinction which is a godsend to middle age. Choose it whenever and wherever you can.

If you are a color-loving soul, and must have variety, the season offers you relief and satisfaction in lovely shades of mauve, plum, taupe, and soft grays. All of these shades are slenderizing. All of them are becoming to the mature woman.

Most specialty shops in the large cities of America have their large-to-order departments, where original French models, as well as gowns and coats and hats of domestic creation, are adapted to the individual seeking to camouflage her weak points and to accentuate her good ones.

A LINE is changed here, a drape rearranged there, a more becoming material substituted for the original—in fact, a complete metamorphosis is an easy thing for the head of such a department to achieve.

She simply studies the figure before her; shows only such merchandise as is suitable, and then begins an adaptation of the gown or coat or suit to the individual need of the customer.

The age of Empress Eugenie, which set the style pace for this year's fashions, was one in which years didn't matter very much.

The variation of the style pattern today gives every woman a chance to wear the frock in which she looks best. The thing to do is to be just as distinctive as you can in your own way. And if you look just a little different than anyone else, remember that that waistline that is no longer young, is the thing for which a true stylist always aims.

The Nervous Child

WE APPROACH the study of the nervous child in the conviction that it can profit us and the child.

It is assumed that by knowing the typical signs and symptoms which characterize the constitutional and the behavior of the nervous child we will be enabled to recognize it early, and to institute measures to safeguard and protect it.

In a measure this is a large assumption not granted by all psychiatrists.

The disagreement centers about the relative importance of hereditary constitutional weaknesses and the stress to which the child is subjected.

It is in a sense a specific instance in the old argument on heredity and environment.

If an inherent constitutional weakness inevitably predisposes the child to serious mental and nervous disorders, then our hopes in eugenics and the exclusion of the constitutionally unfit from the privileges of parenthood, are

On the other hand, as Prof. Terman says, "unfavorable heredity, after all, only the inheritance of a tendency."

Neither the evil made possible by hereditary materialism probably depends in a majority of cases upon what we may call accidental factors of environment."

The deductions to be drawn, therefore, are that by recognizing the nervous child early in its life, by shielding it against unnecessary and excessive strains of a physical and nervous nature, and by educating it properly in control and exercise of its emotional and volitional functions, it may be spared from mental disease and nervous disorders.

This is a rational viewpoint on the problem of the nervous child and one that enables us to escape from the fatalism of the extreme believers in the hereditary forces as a cause of mental and nervous disorders.

I think that young man is worth waiting for. I would say that if he is going out to school, calmly wait until his return. If he cares to send you messages through a friend it will hurt nothing. If he goes to school in town, you can perhaps see him at the home of some relative, very seldom but enough to keep in touch with him. Unless the family can prove something unworthy about him, I should stick to him.

EAR MRS. CARR: I am 20 years old and have been in love for two years with a boy whom I had long "admired from afar."

We didn't think of questioning the inequality of family standing. When I came to an engagement, I realized that I happen to belong to one of those ridiculously proud ancestral-conscious families who, while they have disappeared from the land, have never made serious objection because the possibility of my marrying him has never even suggested itself.

Letters to Martha Carr: I have been in love with a young man who was brought to me by a boy friend of my sister. The whole family liked this young man and since sister's friend was out of a job we went on dates and my friend paid all the dates and my friend paid all the expenses. But this had to stop after a while, because my friend was saving to go to school (he works his way through). Then the family, my mother, sister, brothers and all of them began to be cool about it and tried to find out who said it, because he wanted to make them prove it, she would not tell him. He says the whole thing is false and I believe him. The family say I will have to give him up. He says he did not want me. On the other hand, as Prof. Terman says, "unfavorable heredity, after all, only the inheritance of a tendency."

On the other hand, as Prof. Terrence says, "unfavorable heredity is, in all, only the inheritance of a tendency."

Whether the evil made possible by heredity materializes probably depends in a majority of cases upon what we may call accidental factors of environment.

The majority of the authorities on mental diseases and on mental hygiene would probably agree, on the deductions to be drawn, therefore, are that by recognizing nervous child early in its life, holding it against unnecessary excessive strains of a physical nature, and by educating it properly in control and exercise of its emotional and volitional functions, it may be spared from mental disease and nervous disorders.

is a rational viewpoint on the problem of the nervous child one that enables us to escape the fatalism of the extreme views in the hereditary forces as of mental and nervous disorders.

If you ask my OPINION
Martha Carr

DEAR MRS. CARR: I have been thinking out for some time with a young man who was brought to me by a boy friend of my sister. The whole family liked this young man and since sister's friend was out of a job we went on double dates and my friend paid all expenses. But this had to stop after a while, because my friend was saving to go to school (he works his way through). Then the family, my mother, sister, brothers and all of them began to be cool about his feelings for me. I don't want to keep from me. Then in some way mother heard of an experience of his with another girl and though he went right to her and tried to tell her about it, she said it was his fault. I don't want to tell her. He says the whole thing is false and I believe him. The family say I will have to give him up. And when I asked him if he did not want me, he would better choose home. He wants to marry me, but first, he says, he must make something of himself as we are too young and unprepared to marry.

ALICE D.
I think that young man is worth saving for. I would say no more about it now. If he is going out to school, calmly wait until his return. If he cares to send me messages through a friend it will put nothing. If he goes to school in town, you can perhaps keep in touch with him. Unless the family can prove something worthy about him, I should stick to him.

DEAR MARTHA CARR: I am 20 years old and have been in love for two years with a boy whom I had long "admired from afar." I didn't think to question the inequality of family standing. When I came to an engagement, I realized that I had to belong to one of these ridiculously proud and aristocratic families who, while they have disappointed of this boy and his background, have never made serious objection because the possibility of my marrying him has been even suggested. I feel. In this generation that sounds ridiculous. The worst of it is, I and this boy are in love, and I am afraid I should feel a kind of contempt for his family and perhaps for him—he is so sweet and fine and courteous.

NATALIE.
I haven't the heart to break off without explanation and of course I cannot give him the true reason.

Since you are so positive of this thing in yourself, even if you are altogether to blame, you would be the young man an injustice to marry him. However, when the time comes to be without him, I rather think that will be the test of your courage and will make your decision for you.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I am deeply in love with a woman quite a little older than I. She is, I am almost, the only woman for me and for her beauty and charm of personality fascinate me so that young men seem foolish and superficial beside her. She has been most unkind to me in her married life and is now divorced. There are two children in their teens with whom I get along famously and although there is an older man who also loves her and wants to marry her, she loves me.

Now, Mrs. Carr, there are no financial difficulties, but as long as we are congenial in every way and I want so to try to make her happy don't you think the disparity of our ages is something not even to be considered? We like the same books, and plays and people and even laugh at the same things. Isn't that a real test? TOM M.

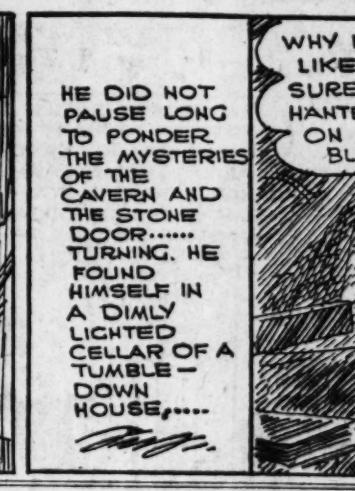

DEAR MRS. CARR: Please tell me if you think it would be all right to take a child from one of the welfare places to board in order to make a little money. I have a baby two years old and thought I might get one about her age so she could have a playmate. Her husband gives me little. His mother interferes, and I work and live and I am just in my twenties and turning gray. I never have decent clothes. I must do something and don't want to go away from home. MARTHA K.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I have been married a few years and the whole time have been obliged to live with my husband's people. I have not been for lack of money, though now my husband uses the "depression" as an excuse. I am tired of fighting and quarreling with "in-laws." My mother is not very coolly and my friends will not come to see me.

or just foolish? They have gotten plenty of hints to stop it.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I have a friend who has a dry, easily wrinkled skin. Could you suggest something for it? BETTY B.

A good nourishing cream, an astringent and occasional "ironing" with ice would help.

MARTHA CARR: Would you please print the name of the theme song used by Amos and Andy in their radio broadcast? JONI JR.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN
By Mary Graham Bonner

The Pines' Conversation

IT was very comfortable on the stump, and the old rug that the Clock had brought along kept them so warm.

Almost as soon as they had settled themselves the two pine trees began to talk. Often and often John and Peggy had heard the pine trees murmuring and sighing and singing, but they had never realized they had really talked before this.

Of course, this was because the Clock had enough magic in his works so that it was possible for them to understand the language of all of Mother Nature's family.

"We've been here for years and years," said the pine tree on the right.

"And we'll be here for years and years more," said the pine tree on the left.

"Oh, oh, whew—whew," said the pine tree on the right in a long drawn-out tone of voice, "it is so beautiful to look down on the white house at the foot of the hill and to see the garden that is there, and to have the sun come out and shine upon us in the daytime and the moon at night!"

"Then there are thrilling times," said the pine tree on the left.

"Whew—whew—o-o-o-o-o," when we do not see the moon, nor yet do we see the sun, but when there are storms.

"We can sway and dance and sing then. Oh, we never need feel restless and as though we had no place to go as long as there are storms to come and stir things up a bit."

"Which is your favorite time of the year?" asked the pine tree on the right of the pine tree on the left.

Straightens Them Out
